PATRIOT

The 1964-65 Patriot

Patrick Henry High School
Roanoke, Virginia

Vol. 4

Foreword

Narrow and straight is the way trampled by ambitious students in their journey of discovery through high school. Each of the 1303 Patriots faces self-discipline and discovery of his abilities and talents. The 340 graduating seniors, members of the first four-year class at Patrick Henry, have attained success by rising above failures, converting their assets into graduation. This tradition is being continued by following classes.

Progressions in learning were guided by a trained faculty, who also held open frontiers in physical development. Students found compatriots along their way leading into adventurous excursions in friendships.

This transition from a novice traveler to an experienced guide is recorded in the 1965 PATRIOT.

Mrs. Singer points out to Jimmy Payne the correlation between the calculus and second year math.

PATRIOT Honors Mrs. Singer

Realizing a student understands a complicated math problem, Mrs. Singer smiles.

This dedication honors all teachers at Patrick Henry because "their hospitality and friendship restored the weary traveler on his way and their help and guidance was always given unstintingly." This quote from Desmond Donnally uses words which picture the faculty correctly.

To show our gratitude to one teacher at Patrick Henry, for your gentleness which inspires gentleness in others; for the trust, respect and consideration you have given us as young adults; for the high value of honesty which you have illustrated and then emplanted in us; for your friendly smile that always greeted us whether things went right or wrong; as an expression of our love for you, we dedicate the 1965 PATRIOT to you . . .

Mrs. Madelyn Singer

Mrs. Singer finishes grading a set of papers to return to her next period class.

The riddle of the assembly: What does Mr. Secord's expression mean?

There is a need today—in the face of rapid sociological and technological change—for a school staff composed of people who are equipped to face new problems. Persons who can lead, guide, teach and mold the human, physical and social resources of the school and community achieve society's goals.

At Patrick Henry there is a new way to create a climate for learning, the "school within a school." Mr. Harold Secord ably serves as principal, meeting and mastering the problems of a new age. Through his guidance, the school moves forward in pursuit of excellence and in fulfillment of the high purpose of education for every individual. —Adapted Evaluation Report 1964

Hand on the Intercom Rules Our World

Mr. Taylor, Persinger Hall Dean, checks the master schedule before assigning a new student to classes.

Mr. Bartol, Parsons Hall Dean, has a friendly chat with Jackie Cooper.

Deans Do Double Duty

Deans Donald Bartol, Carl Nave, and Benjamin Taylor supervise the three halls. A close dean-faculty-student relationship is made possible by the "school within a school" plan. Under the leadership of deans, friendly but spirited hall competition prevails. The dean's duty as chief disciplinarian often casts him in the role of villain; however, most students discover that the fierce exterior conceals a true friend and trusted adviser.

Mr. Nave, McQuilkin Hall Dean and Guidance Counselor, ploughs thru a desk-load of work.

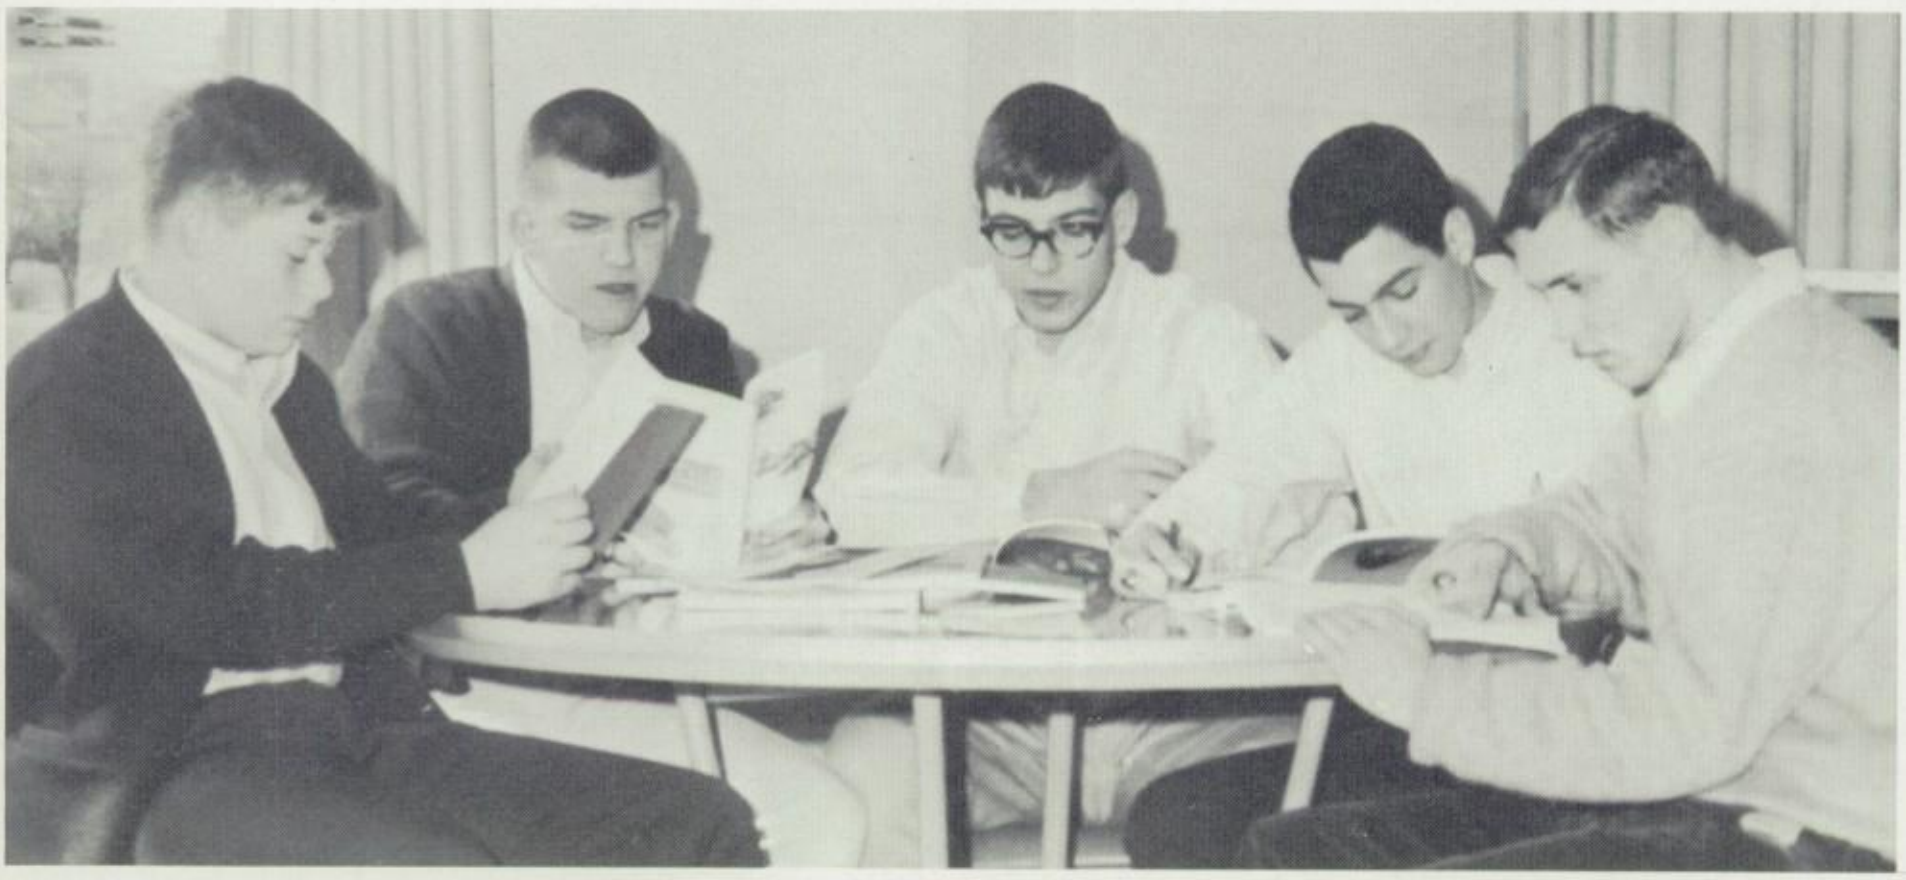
The Future

The Guidance Office is always open to the student who has a problem about college entrance, studies, or job selection. Guidance counselors, Mr. James Bishop, Mr. Carl Nave, Mrs. Elizabeth Ward, and Miss Margaret Martin, help each student to select the college of his choice. Throughout the year, numerous opportunities are provided to acquaint students with the many possibilities for post-high school education and employment. In cooperation with the Kiwanis of Roanoke, monthly vocational assemblies are given for Juniors. College night featured representatives of state colleges and the armed services.

Mrs. Ward, Parsons Hall Guidance Counselor, attacks a pile of college recommendations.



During sixth period study hall, Larry Pheil, Ed Pyne, John King, Bruce Gillespie, and Barton Whitlock examine catalogues from the guidance office.

Mr. Bishop, Chairman of the Guidance Department, gives Cindy Levin a mint to calm her jittery nerves while she waits to hear from George Washington University. P.S. She was accepted.

Miss Cundiff gives a friendly smile to everyone who comes to the main office.

College Board woes bring many students to the Guidance Office.

To insure proper planning and achieving of goals, guidance counselors assist underclassmen to select schedules for their high school careers. In September Freshmen and Juniors take STEP and SCAT tests, the first of many tests which measure educational progress and harass unwary Patriots.

Miss Martin, Persinger Hall Guidance Counselor, ponders a student's qualifications before suggesting a college choice.

Mr. Graybill, checking the calendar before scheduling the Serata, usually has green papers on his desk, for his job includes counting all school money.

Office Staff Knows No Rest

Mr. George Graybill, Activities Director, coordinates school events, distributes text books, and is the school treasurer and banker. His work enables P. H. to have a rich program of extra-curricular activities. Mrs. Cornelia Grant, Financial Secretary, assists him.

The office secretaries, Mrs. Una White and Miss Carol Cundiff, attend to the herculean task of school records, correspondence, and telephone calls. Preparing college transcripts and IBM materials occupies many days.

Mrs. White checks preliminary class enrollments needed for IBM programming.

Mrs. Grant pauses from posting the books to write a receipt for a publications payment.

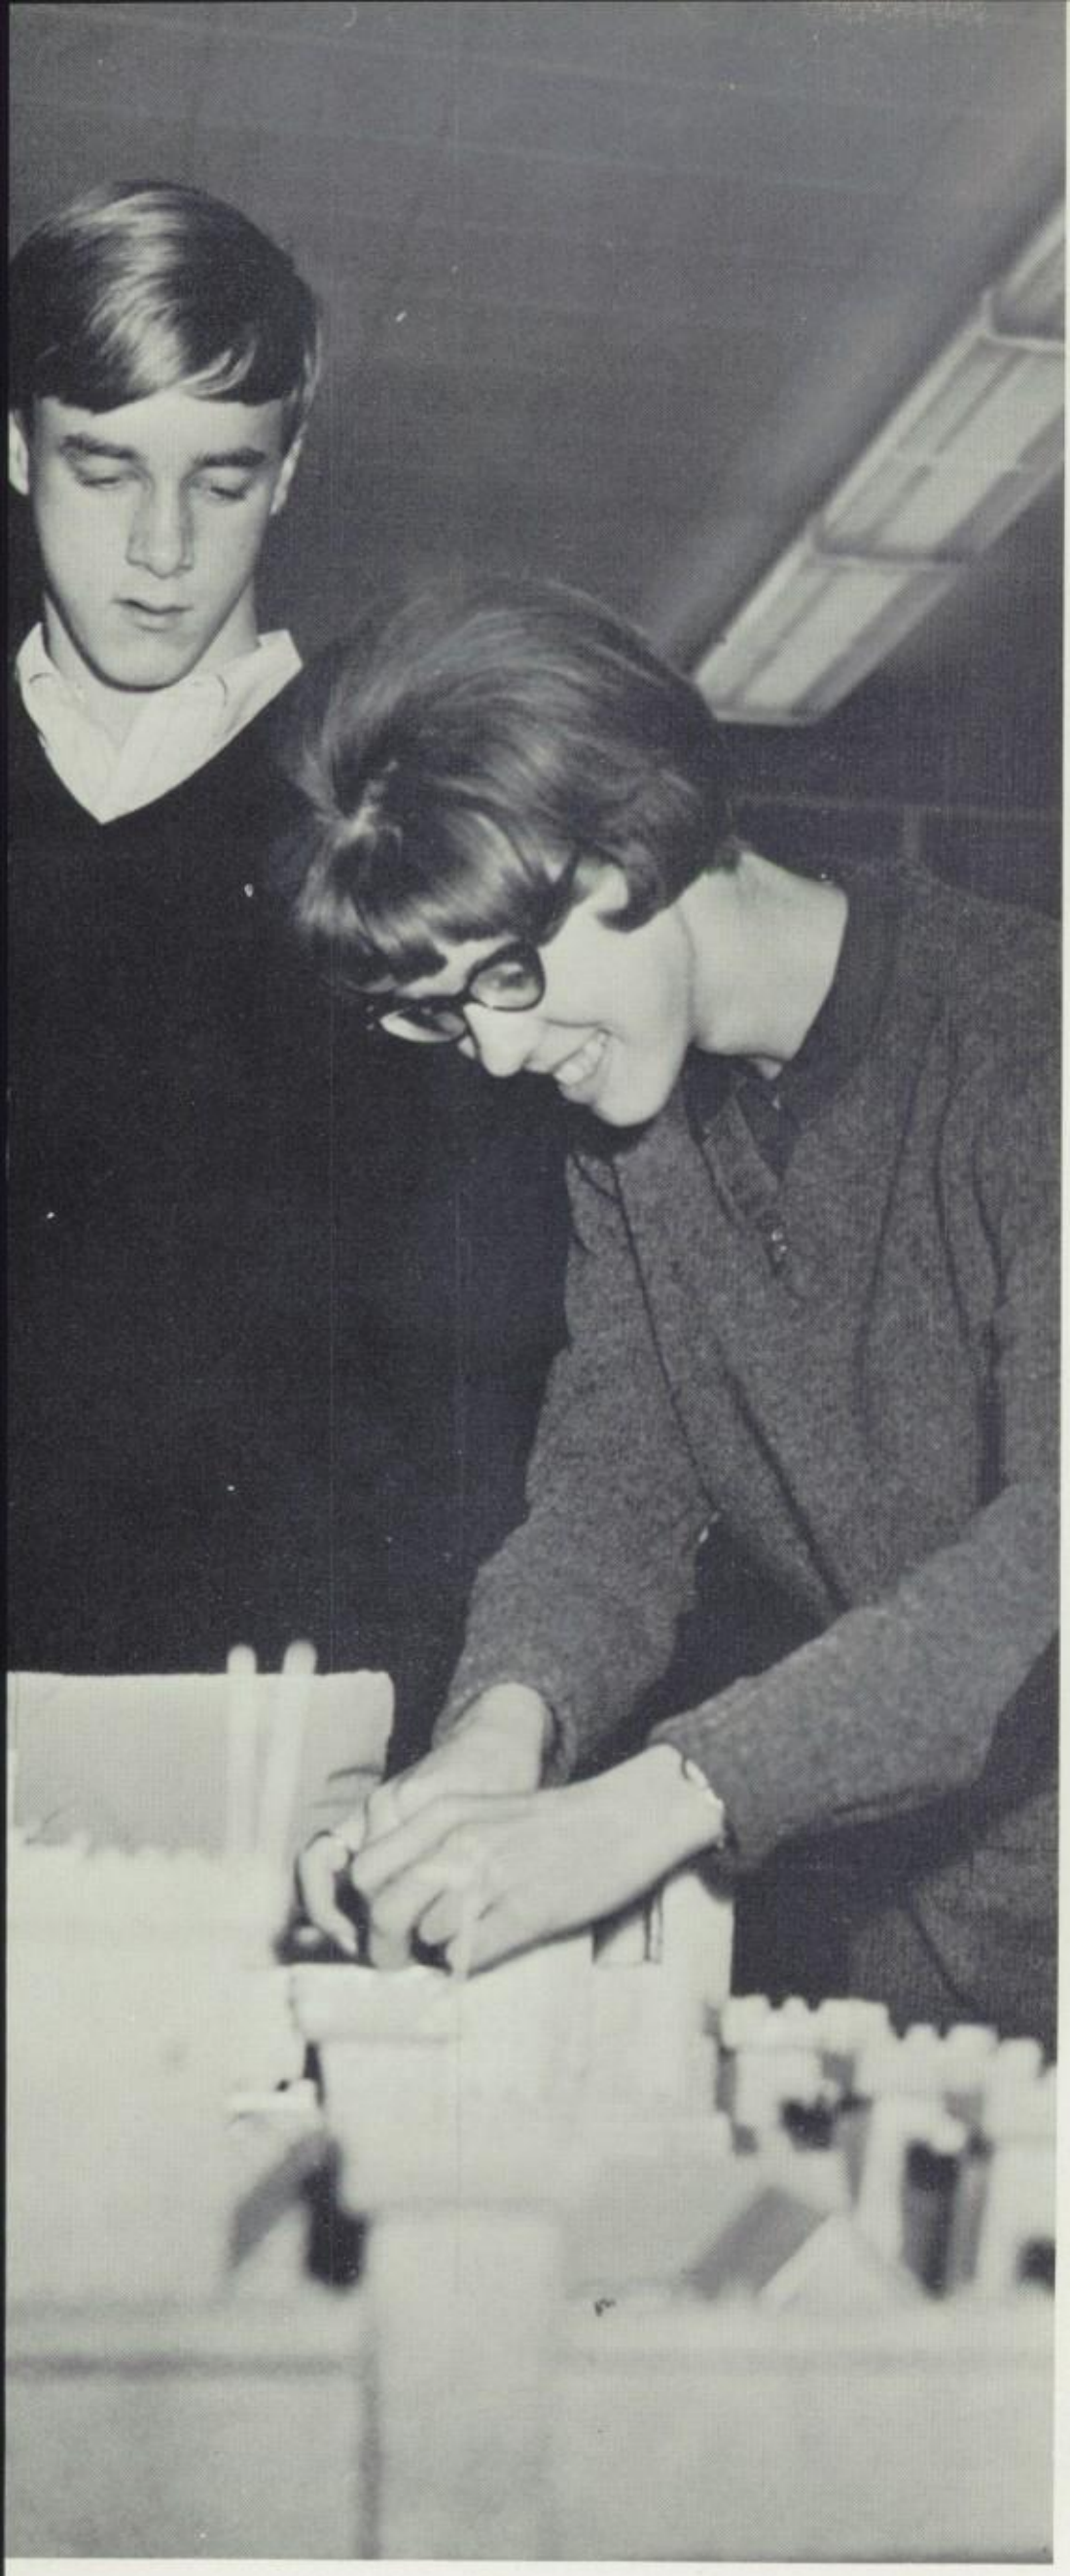
English is the Passport to Understanding

In World Literature Richard Bernard, Nancy Moss, Richard Edwards, Nancy Holcomb, and Emily Pirkey lead a class discussion on Dante's Inferno.

English students are well acquainted with many techniques of the learning experience: discussion, lecture, drama, reading, research, and film viewing.

Literature and theme writing were stressed in all regular English classes. Freshmen and sophomores studied themes in literature, while juniors surveyed American literature and seniors English literature.

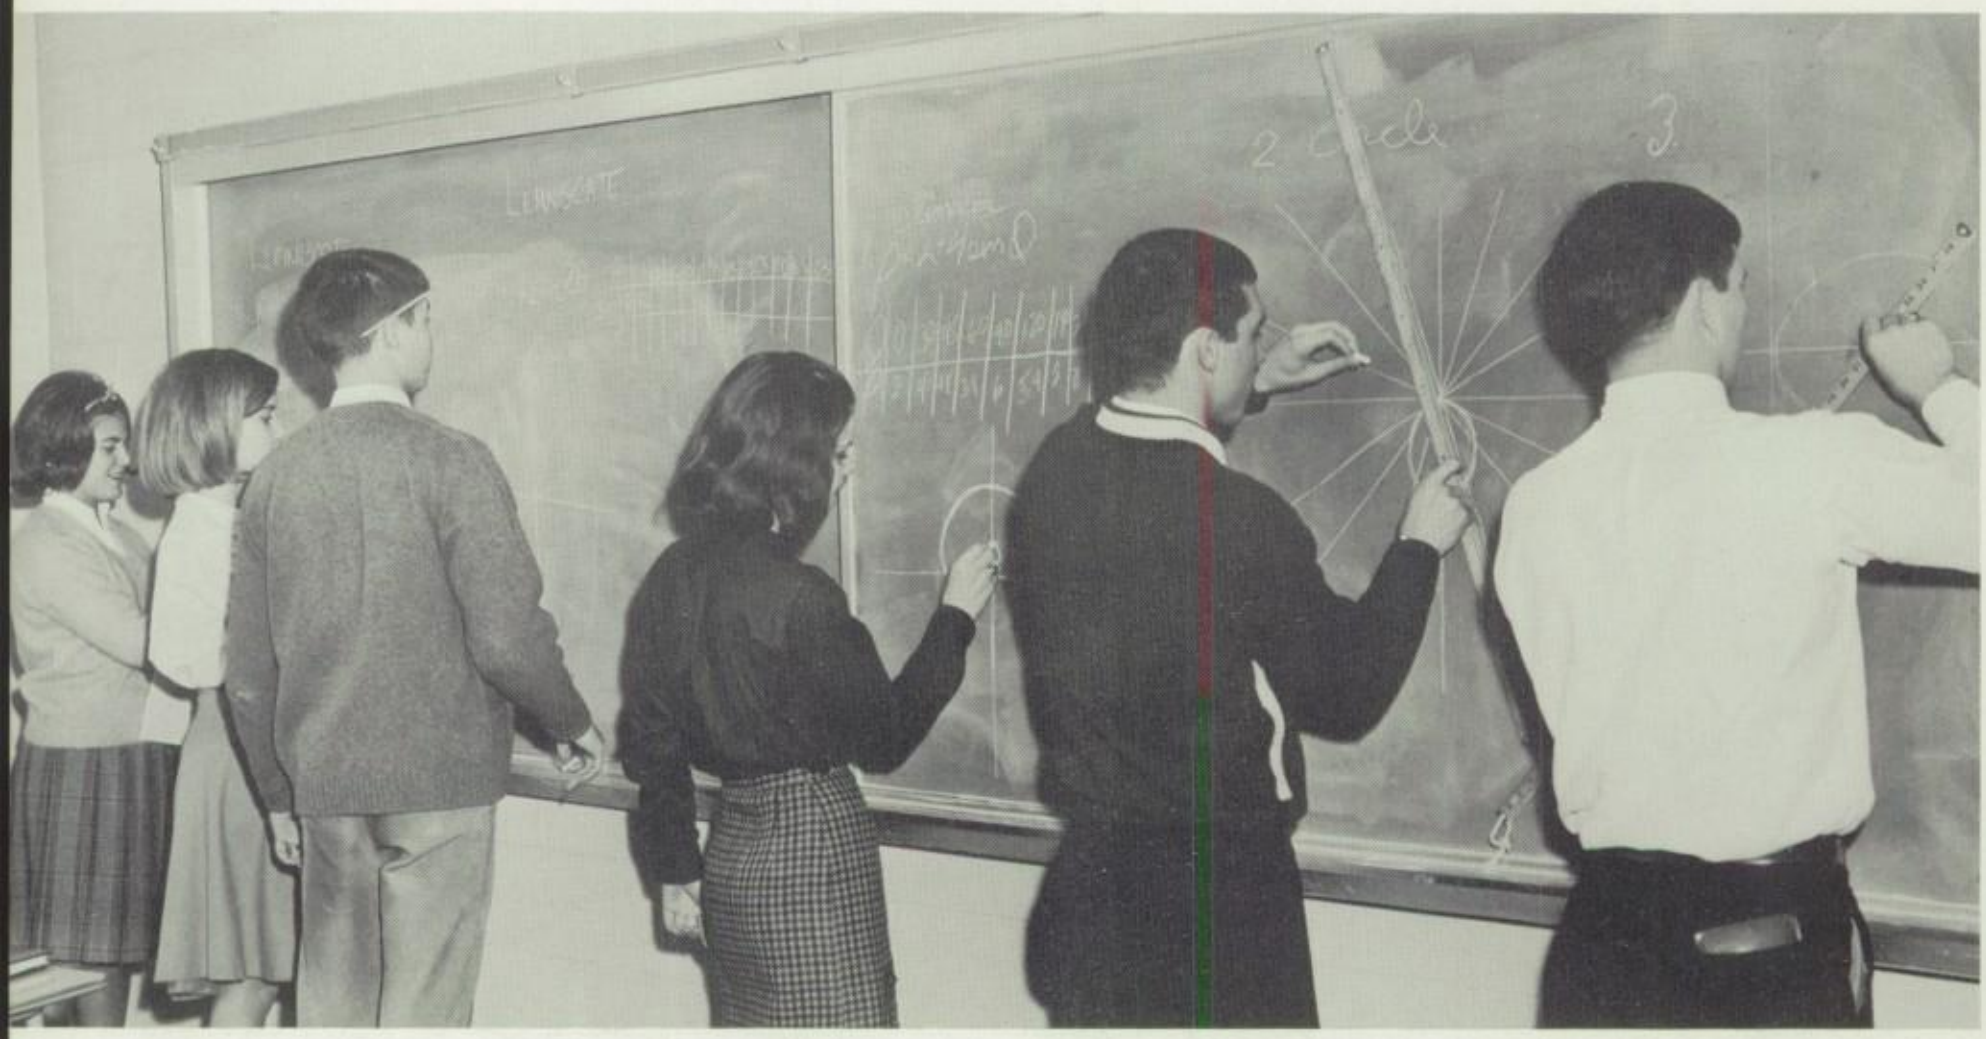
Experience proved to be the best teacher in several special English courses. Through speech classes, students gained poise in speaking. Stagecraft and play production classes learned technique by working behind and on stage. Poems, stories, and essays were composed as Creative Writing students learned the art of writing. Improved techniques and depth of comprehension were brought about in World Literature, remedial and developmental reading.



In his second period planning period, Mr. Knight reviews his notes on T. S. Eliot's "The Wasteland."

Cathy Walthall and Jim Kesler examine the page make-up of the March 19th Statesman.

As K. P. Fitzgerald looks on, Lawanda Angle arranges a medieval castle in preparation for study of "Idylls of the King."



Ellen Lictman, Shelia Wilkerson, George Hawkins, Laurel Stoller, Jim Bishop, and Johnny Light, members of the Advanced Math class, discover the strange curves of polar coordinates.

Over 1,000 of Patrick Henry's 1300 Patriots are enrolled in one of the eight math courses offered.

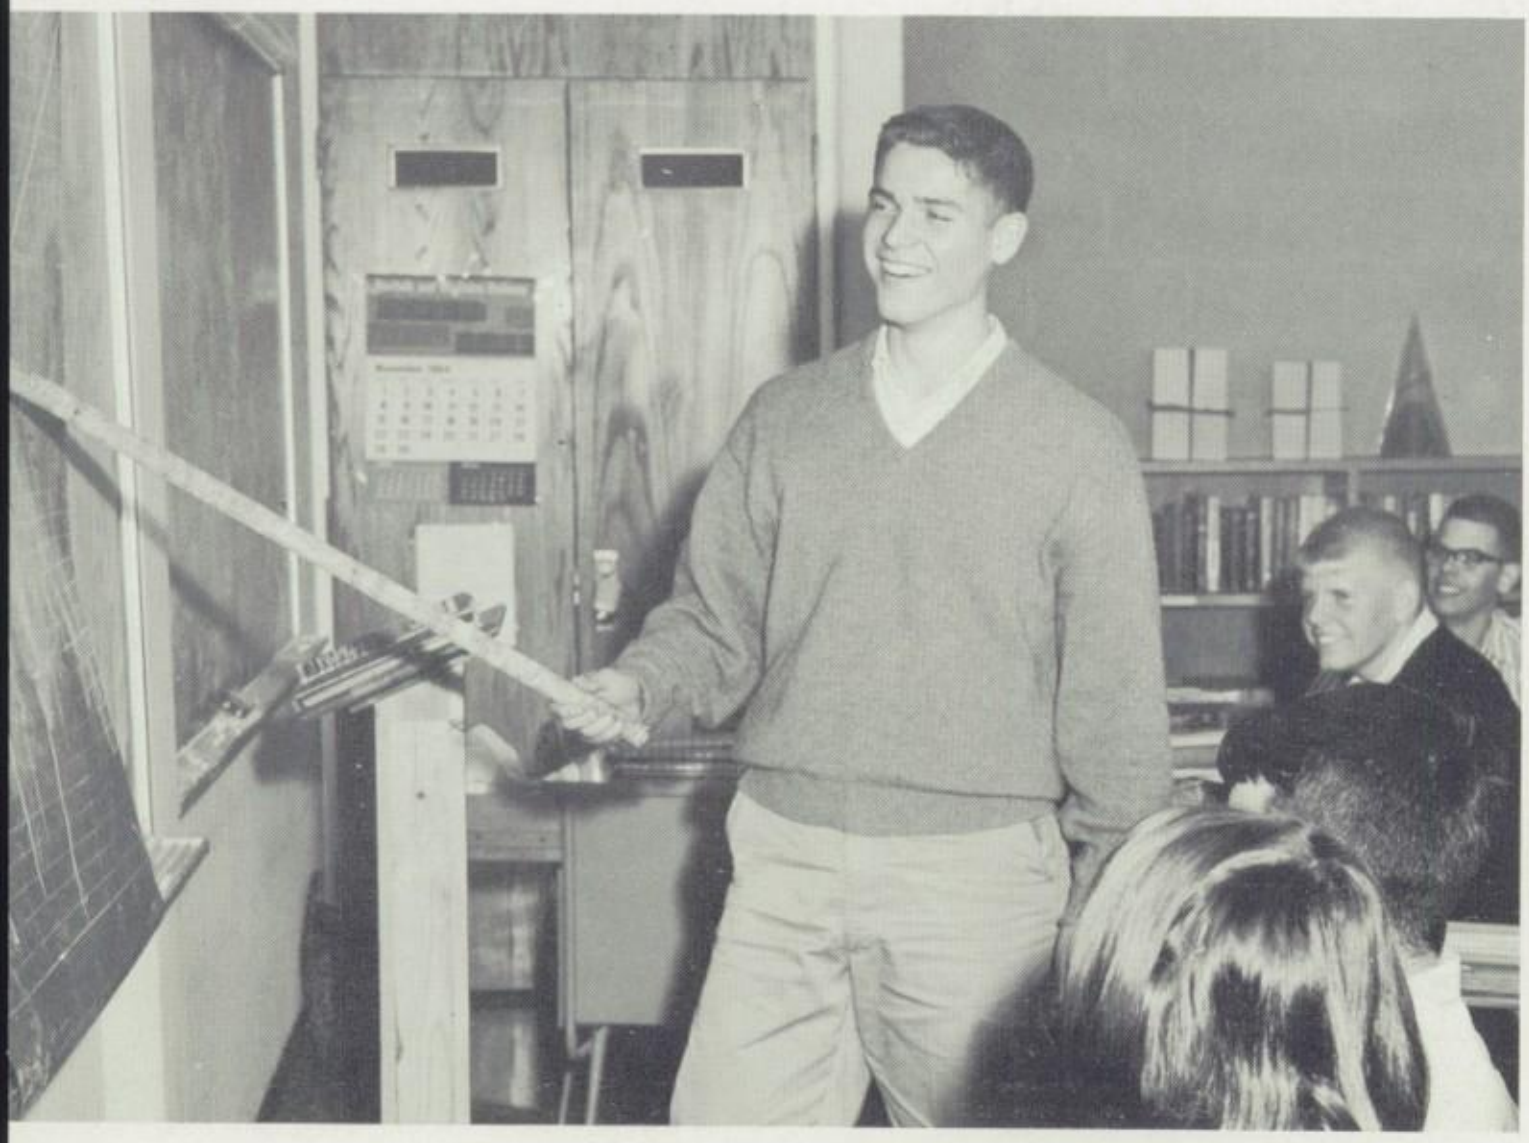
Many students take basic or general math. Those enrolled in Algebra I, Algebra II, and Plane and Solid Geometry study the basic concepts of modern mathematics. The set theory and new definitions for mathematical properties perplex, bewilder, and fascinate numerous Patriots.

Advanced math courses, College Algebra, Solid Geometry, and Trigonometry, are semester courses carrying a half credit intended further to prepare pupils for college math.

For the first time a fifth year of advanced math, including a semester of calculus and a semester of analytical geometry, was offered to those who had taken Algebra in the eighth grade.

On March 4, interested and competent math students took a test given by the Mathematics Association of America.

Jill Butler, Pat White, and David Davis, engrossed in Algebra I board work, never realized that the camera saw them and snapped them.



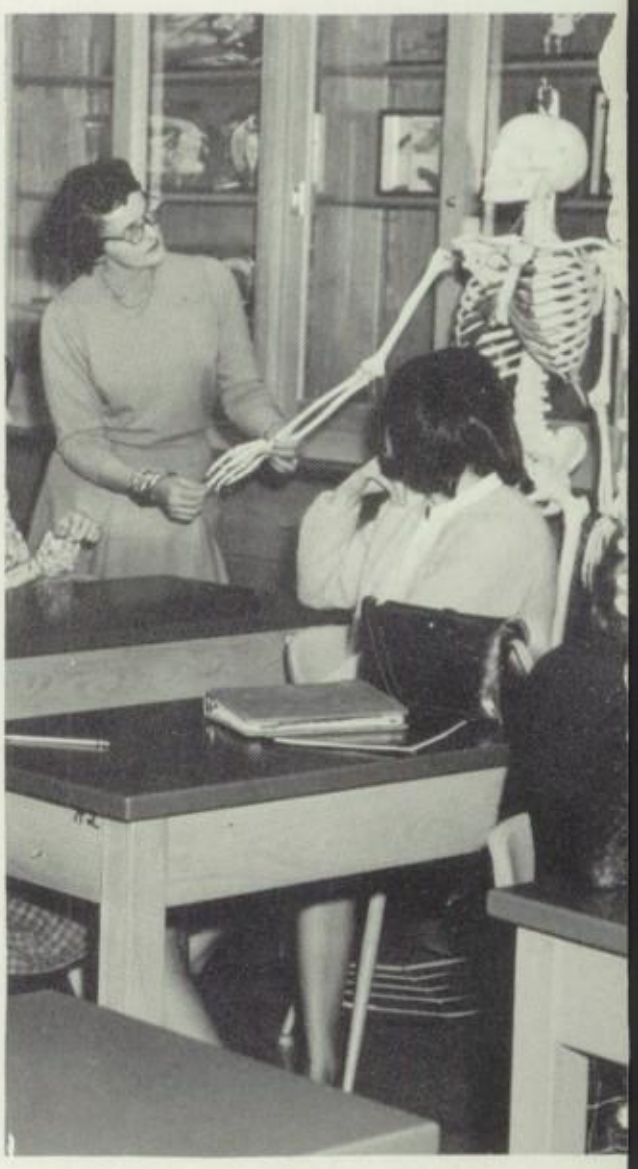
Don Martin explains a linear equation to Mrs. Stump's fifth period advanced Algebra II class.

P.H. Probes World Of Man and Matter

Crashing test tubes, the aroma of a newly disected fish, and an assembly of levers and pulleys—sights and sounds of Patrick Henry's science department. Chemistry, biology, and physics divisions continued to make strides in preparing students for future careers. The chemistry enrollment was twice that of last year, showing increased scientific interest among students.

This year two Patriots praticipated in the Student Intern Program in which they learned lab techniques at a local hospital.

Jean Bailey placed 1st in the girl's physical science division in the city fair. Mike McClung and Boyd Nichols both placed 3rd in their respective divisions.



Mrs. Dickerson points out bones of the skeleton to biology students.

Mr. Waldron, graduate student, supervises a physics experiment performed by Jim Davis, Bobby Rutherford, Horace Thomas, and Jim Kulp.

703 Bilingual Patriots Chatter at P.H.

In her fourth year French class Madame Roberts lectures on the comparative works of Voltaire, Rousseau, and Chateaubriand.

Enrolled in one or more of our four foreign language courses offered at Patrick Henry are 703 of our 1304 Patriots, 53% of the student body.

For Seniors who had taken French in the eighth grade in junior high school, a fifth year was offered for the first time.

In addition to regular classwork, Spanish students developed their pronunciations and vocabulary in the modern language lab.

In Russian classes students are challenged not only to master the Russian alphabet and language, but also to understand the Russian government and culture.

Third and fourth year Latin classes meet in combined sessions, studying Vergil and Cicero in alternate years. This is Vergil year. Latin Week and the Latin Banquet celebrating Florilia, the Festival of Flowers, ended the Latin activities for this year.

With 31 Russian, 217 Latin, 225 Spanish, and 230 French students the language group is one of Patrick Henry's biggest and busiest departments.

Judy Davis, Patty Dooley, Allen Oberlin, and Diane Davis improve their Spanish accent by recording their voices, then listening to the play-back.

Mary Anne Moorman and Linda Garland, Russian III students, admire the bulletin board prepared by the Art Department.

In Latin II class Benson Wire and Cindy Tower wait for Rinn Turner to call their names. George Richards who has already answered begins the day's work.

Miss Edith Shanks asks Nancy Moss, a fourth year Latin student, to scan the first lines of the sixth book of Vergil's Anneid.

History is a Great Adventure

During a year of change, both on a national and international level, the Social Studies Department seeks to alert students to their role in the world. A full program of studies includes World History and Geography, American History and Government, and Contemporary History. To keep abreast of news, Civics classes use Time for current events and study in depth articles included on the weekly Time test. Stimulating thought and lively discussion develop a new awareness of the American heritage. In the fall a special emphasis was placed on the presidential elections as hot debate, campaign posters, and a voter participation filled the school with "Goldwater" and "Johnson."

In February special displays focused on American History Month. Through History and Geography, understanding the past leads to understanding the present and preparing for the future.

Patriots Enjoy Physical Education

The main purpose of the Physical Education Department is to create a sound body to go with the sound mind developed in other academic classes. This is done by a routine of general physical fitness and participation in a variety of sports.

At the beginning and end of the school year each student is administered a physical fitness test to determine his, or her, weaknesses and strong points. This testing is done in order that the Physical Education Department can evaluate its program and adapt it to the physical needs of students.

A varied curriculum of instruction and participation in more than twenty-five sports is offered to each student. Included among these sports are touch football, speed ball, volleyball, basketball, softball, relay races, soccer, field hockey, tumbling, gymnastics, stunts, body mechanics, modern dance, bowling, badminton, aerial tennis, deck tennis, table tennis, shuffleboard, archery, horseshoes, track and field, and wrestling.

At regular intervals boys' and girls' classes combine for co-recreation. These sessions are comprised of folk dancing, square dancing, social dances, and various games. Co-recreation adds diversity to the curriculum and is enjoyed by all.

In addition to physical training students also receive instruction in Driver Education and Health. Driver Education is very important because of its significance in reduction of automobile accidents. Students receive reduced insurance rates upon successful completion of this course.

In Health class, students learn the factual aspect of the physical training that they do. Care for the body and prevention of disease is given careful study.

An annual Physical Education Show is used to raise money for the Physical Education Department. New and much needed equipment is bought with this money. This equipment gives students a chance to participate in sports that normally are not available.

An extensive intramural system plays a prominent role in the Department's curriculum. Competition is between either home rooms or physical education classes. Championships are held in basketball, touch football, speed ball, volleyball, track and field, and wrestling.

The value of competitive sports cannot be underestimated. Athletic competition endows a person, not only with a strong body, but also with sportsmanship, competitive spirit, self-confidence, responsibility to himself and his group, team effort, and the will to win. These are the habits that the Physical Education Department endeavors to bestow upon the young men and women at Patrick Henry High School.

Larry Davidson builds strength, speed, and agility by climbing the peg-boards during Phys. Ed. class.

Patrick Henry saves much money by doing its own laundry. Mike Miller removes towels from the dryer while Keith Garland loads the washer.

Up! Girls do leg lifts during a gym period. Light calisthenics improve the all-round fitness of students.

Candidates for All State Choir chosen by Mr. Burgess, Mr. Ferguson, and Miss Camper are Nancy Robertson, David Edwards, Richard Edwards, Nancy Srb, Connie Blake, Ann Janney, Frances Cundiff, Art Eddy, Sydney Turner, and Ann Thomas.

Including art, speech and dramatics, choir, concert band, orchestra, shop, and mechanical drawing, the Fine Arts Department expresses Patriots' many talents. The speech and dramatics division works with the English Department to sponsor forensic and speech competition. For the second year, the music division presented Handel's "Messiah" during the Christmas season. Four guest soloists, members of the choirs, students and their parents, and students from other area high schools joined the orchestra in this oratorio. When the art division transformed bare bulletin boards and blank walls into decorative displays, student art work made the interior of P.H. as attractive as the exterior. Spring found all parts of the Department hard at work on Carnival!, the Serata, annual Fine Arts Festival combining art, drama, music, and dance. Shop students constructed sets; the Home Economics Department made costumes. Providing future vocations, avocations, cultural appreciation and understanding is the goal of Fine Arts Department.

Horrible Henry, the Carnival! puppet begs Lili, Ann Janney, not to leave him and the other puppets.

During his fifth period class, Mr. Kinzie, the new director of the string ensemble, conducts a rehearsal for the Messiah.

Another class of Home Ec. 5 designed for senior girls practiced home and family business management, selection of clothing, and the preparation of simple foods. In progressive Home Ec. courses, proficiency was gained in cooking, sewing, and home management, with a special activity highlighting each course. Home Ec. today prepares these boys and girls for homes tomorrow.

Plan Your Future With Business Education

Two different departments, Business Education and Distributive Education, combine to meet the demands of both business and non-business students. Typewriting is especially popular with students who desire business for personal use. Shorthand, bookkeeping, and clerical practice offer training to those students preparing for business employment.

The Distributive Education program provides a means of learning the fundamentals of Distribution. Each student spends 15 hours a week on the job in addition to classroom instruction.

School Staffs Aid Progress

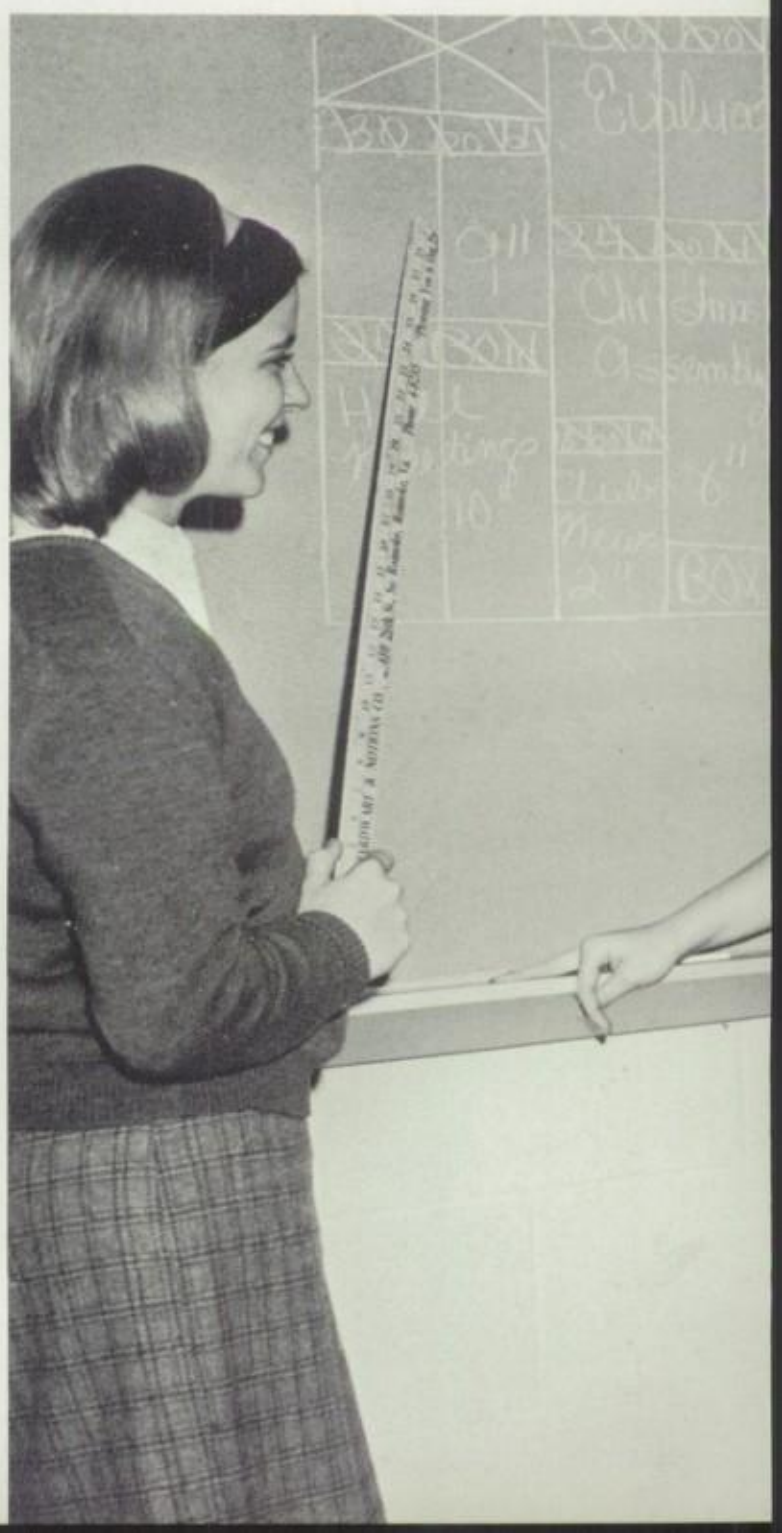
Good food and immaculate school—these are the results of the efficient work of Patrick Henry's cafeteria and custodial staffs. Mr. Albert C. Holden heads the maintenance staff of fourteen. They are on the go, both day and night, solving numerous problems and providing various services to the school.

Manager of the kitchens is Mrs. W. B. Moses. Each day the cafeteria force prepares lunch for hundreds of hungry Patriots, as well as for those in our three Elementary Satellites, Raleigh Court, Fishburn Park, and Fairview. We are grateful to the Patrick Henry cafeteria and custodial staffs for their continuing service.

Among its many students, the Business Department chose Pat Fidler as its most active and rewarding member.

Recipient of the Student Government Award, John Light is active in S.G.A. activities, a member of the track team, and an honor graduate.

For their academic achievements and their athletic ability, George Hawkins (pictured) and Bobby Rutherford were awarded the Fallwell Awards, the highest awards to be received at Patrick Henry.



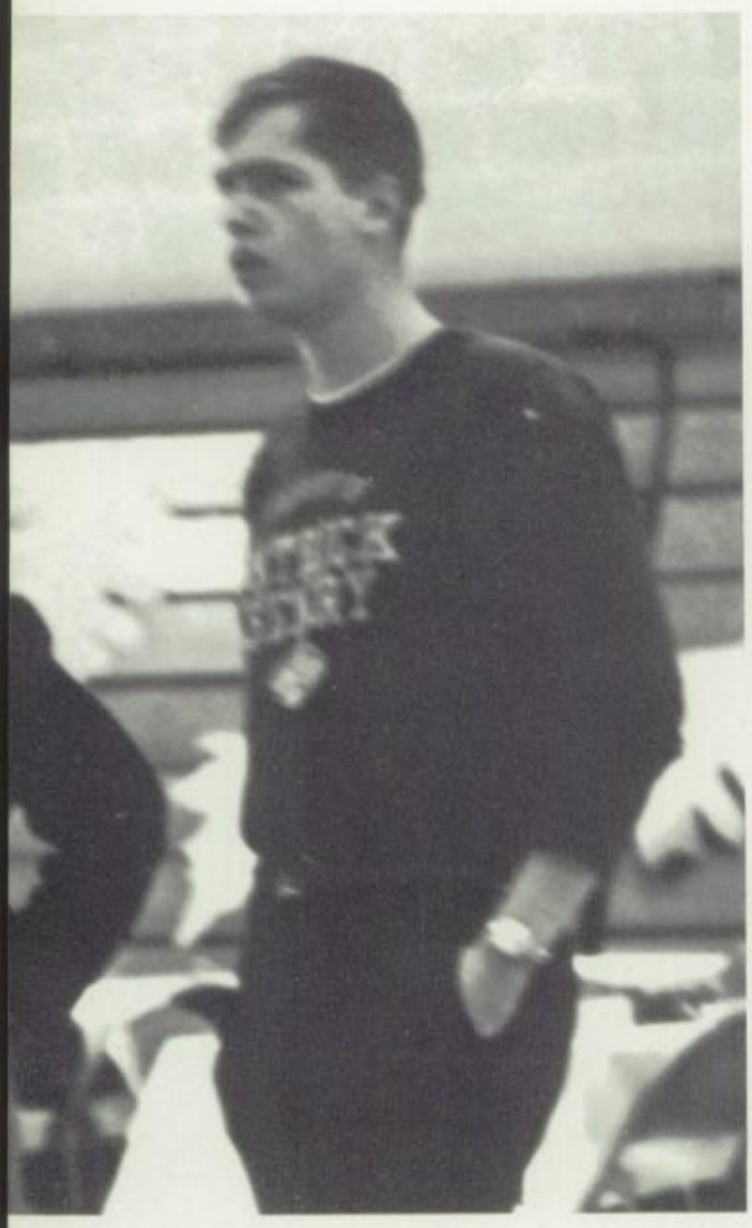
Judy McCartney, center, was chosen by her surrounding staff members as most valuable member on the newspaper, THE STATESMAN, a city-wide award.

Honor graduate, outstanding art student, president of Quill and Scroll Honor Society and active member of the Patrick Henry Players, Marilyn Brigham, Quill editor, was chosen top student in the English Department.

Foremost Patriots are Honored

Ending the school year academic awards were presented to students at a school assembly. Each department presented an award to its outstanding student and certain other awards were announced.

Department awards were to Eliza Stockman in History; Marilee Coplan and Jim Wimmer in Distributive Education; Lee Wilhelm for biology, Jean Bailey for physics, and David Meincke for chemistry, all from the Science Department; Laurel Stoller from both the Latin and Math Departments. Laurel, valedictorian, active member of the Patrick Henry Players and member of the ORATOR staff, has maintained a five point average through school.



Art Eddy, a four-year member of the football team, received an award for outstanding service to the science department.

Honor graduate Ann Thomas received the National Merit Award.

Fourteenth in her class, honor graduate Jenny Nininger, chosen the most valuable member of the French Department, was awarded the Mr. and Mrs. Fallwell Award.

1964-65 Awards Given

Recording Secretary of the Student Government Association, Susan Grammer received the DAR Good Citizen Award.

Mr. Burgess presented band awards. Tommy Calhoun was named the outstanding freshman; Dick Eure, the outstanding sophomore; Ann Sacks the outstanding junior; and Mary Armentrout, outstanding senior. George Hawkins and Ann Sacks played in All-State Band. Bette Snapp was selected as the senior in the string emsemble to show academic achievement, leadership, and all around musicianship.

Richard Shepherd was presented with the American Legion School Award.

Cathy Walthall and Bev Fitzpatrick received the Golden Wheel Award sponsored by the AAA and the Roanoke Valley Teen Safety Council.

Centrally located, the library is literally and figuratively the heart of Patrick Henry. Before, during, and after school, students and teachers with many different interests visit the library. They work on themes, book reports, projects, last minute homework, and are perpetually checking out and returning books. Browsing in the stacks and thumbing through magazines are favorite pastimes of pleasure readers. Still growing, the library has become so crowded for book space that branch outlets have been established in the three G. E. rooms.

Cheerleaders Spark Spirit

Patrick Henry Varsity and Junior Varsity cheerleaders boosted the student body's school spirit and cheered the football and basketball teams to victory.

Varsity cheerleaders attended a cheerleading clinic at Martinsville in the spring of '64. During the summer they met twice a week to practice new cheers and perfect old ones and continued working during the school months. Industrious cheerleaders planned pep assemblies, made posters, and initiated all bus trips to Patriot games.

Sara Gibbons was head of the Varsity squad, and Ellen Lichtman served as Executive Council representative.

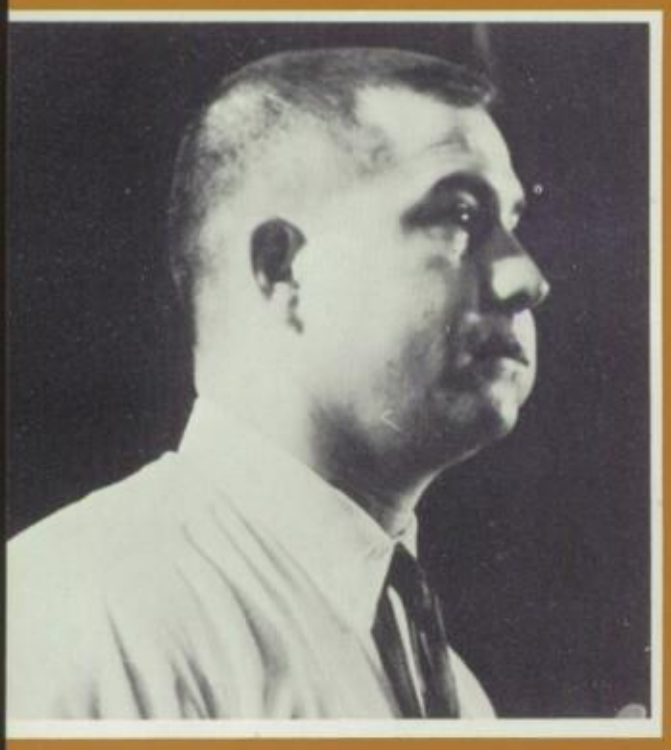
PH Winning Season Is Marked By Close



Coach Ray Lucus chews and watches the Fleming game action.

The 1964 Patriot football season proved by record a bit disappointing. As we look closer, however, we find a fine group of determined players. Larry Ronk, Mike Blasiole, Bill Churchill, Russell Nelson, Bob Copty, John King, Randy Edwards, Bob Slaughter, and Barton Whitlock led a tough Patriot defense. Jimmy Altis and Whitlock proved formidable runners and scored most of the Patriot touchdowns.

PATRIOTS vs ANDREW LEWIS

"We just weren't ready." These words were a candid quote from a P. H. fan after leaving the Patriots first attempt of the 1964 football season, a 27-12 loss to the Wolverines. Patriot standouts were Barton Whitlock, Mike Blasiole, and Randy Edwards.

PATRIOTS vs JEFFERSON

Following the opening loss to Andrew Lewis was an inspiring 12-0 victory over cross-town arch-rival Jefferson. Mike Blasiole and Barton Whitlock starred for Patrick Henry.

PATRIOTS vs LANE OF CHARLOTTESVILLE

This was the important prestige game on the Patrick Henry schedule. Lane was the unbeaten and untied past state champ and the Patriots tied them 6-6 in an impressive defensive show.

PATRIOTS vs FLEMING

Alert End Randy Edwards, a Bushkar to Cooper pass, and an extra point by Jimmy Altis provided a 13-6 victory for the Patriots. The importance of this victory can be traced to the district championship race.

PATRIOTS vs GRUNDY

Grundy put forth what their coach described as their best effort in managing a 6-6 tie with the Patriot Eleven. Jimmy Altis scored for the Patriots. Coach Howard Light said, "This is the worst game we've played since I've been here."

PATRIOTS vs RICHLANDS

period in leading the Purple to a 6-0 victory over the Big Blue.

PATRIOTS vs G. W. OF DANVILLE

In this contest the Patriots were unable to push the ball over the goal line. A 4th-down-and-1 situation on the G. W. one yard line ended the biggest P. H. threat and the game ended 0-0, another tie.

PATRIOTS vs E. C. GLASS

The frequent exchange of the football was the most "brilliant" happening in this game, a 6-0 loss to a lucky E. C. Glass team.

PATRIOTS vs NORTHSIDE

A 7-6 victory was little consolation for this P. H. performance. Russ Nelson kicked the winning extra point.

PATRIOTS vs TAZEWELL

The Patriot cause was strengthened by two touchdowns in the first half. Jimmy Altis and Barton Whitlock were responsible for these successes. The second half, however, proved fatal, with Tazewell winning 27-12.

J.V., Frosh Boast Undefeated Season

Leon Briggs and Larry Johnson go over first half mistakes in the Andrew Lewis game.

Freshman and Junior Varsity teams of Patrick Henry were unbeaten in their 1964 season. Under the direction of coaches Steve Baker and Len Mosser, the Freshmen compiled a 4-0-1 record. Coaches Leon Briggs and Larry Johnson guided the J. V.'s to a 5-0-1 record.

Russell Eddy, Keith Dodson and Jack Spence were standouts for the freshmen and are good prospects for future varsity teams.

A strong defense contributed to the success of the Junior Varsity Team. The success of these teams shows the bright future ahead for the varsity in the years to come.

Varsity Completes Record Season

The crowd roared its approval as the Patrick Henry team disappeared into the locker room for the half-time reflections on their performance. Here in the first round of the Group I-A tournament the determined team of Patrick Henry juniors had managed a one point halftime lead over Manchester after leading by as much as eleven at one time. Although the second half found Manchester victorious it also completed the most outstanding basketball season in P.H.'s four-year history. Many firsts were accomplished by this Patriot team. The century mark was passed against Franklin County's Eagles and a victory was finally won against Lynchburg's E. C. Glass High School in the second round of the regional tournament. Noble Marshall tied the mark for individual scoring high in one game with 26 points. Marshall and Jackie Burrows, co-winners of the team's Most Valuable Player Award, will combine with returning letterman for next year's promising Patriot's basketball team.

Patriot Matmen Experience Close Decisions

Wrestling, a rugged, individual sport, has finally caught on big in the City-County. Wrestling severely tests a boy's strength, quickness, and agility. Competitive spirit, desire, hustle, and experience are also necessary if a boy hopes to become a successful wrestler.

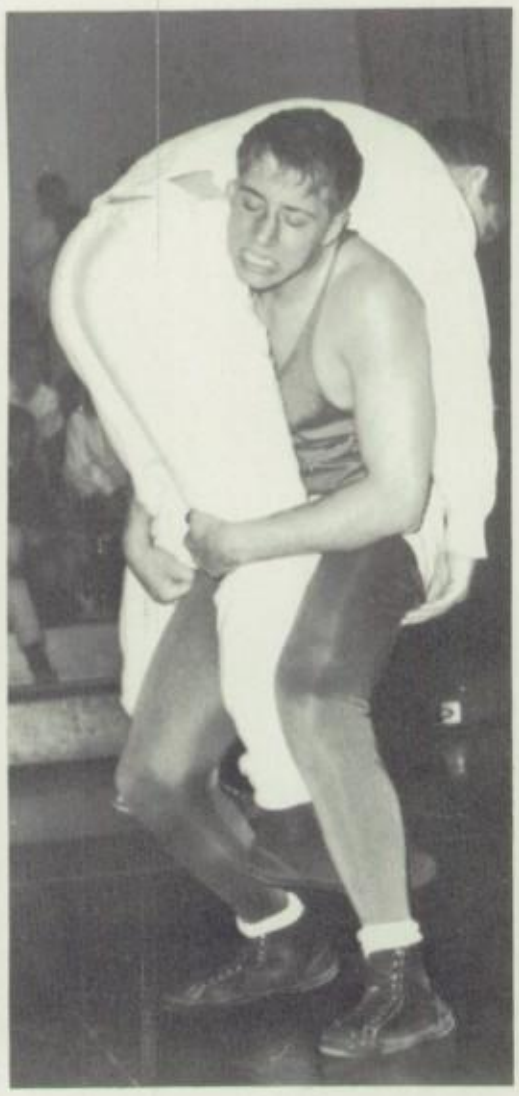
1965's 5-8 record was just the opposite of 1964's winning season. However, in three of the matches the Patriots needed only one more individual win to have won the entire match.

Mike Blasiole, Patrick Henry's all-state football player, and Gary Powers led the team in victories. Sidelined for the first four matches, Blasiole returned to accomplish an undefeated season with a perfect 9-0 won-lost record. Mike was named Patrick Henry's outstanding wrestler for the second straight year. Powers had an outstanding 11-2 record in his first year as a varsity wrestler.

The Western District Tournament, held at Northside High School, was a series of upsets and many of the favorites were disappointed. The heavily favored Northside Vikings won their second Western District Championship.

Of the twelve Patriot entries only two finished fourth or better to be eligible to compete in the State Championships held at Maury High School, Norfolk, Virginia. Larry Davidson placed third and Gary Powers finished fourth.

Although academic ineligibilities hurt the Patriots, lack of experience was the major cause of this year's disappointing season. Many of the boys are freshmen and sophomores, and with proper development and hard work they can provide Patrick Henry with a strong nucleus for future years.



Mike Blasiole, Patrick Henry's outstanding wrestler, had a perfect 9-0 record in the heavyweight division. Here he lifts Bob Copty in an exhibition match.

Cindermen Show Promise for Future

Although the Patriots failed to win a duel meet, the 1965 track team showed promise for a strong team next year. Academic ineligibilities and some disciplining problems reduced the number of capable performers on the team. The decision of several boys not to participate further hampered the team effort.

Seniors George Hawkins and Preston Painter were outstanding for the Patriots in the high jump. Hawkins also doubled as a hurdler to back up regular Mike Aliff. Robert Atkinson and Richard Light handled the pole vault. Atkinson, a senior, was the leader in this event, but Light, only a sophomore, was close behind and showed excellent potential in his first year as a pole vaulter. Sophomore Wayne Dodson showed fine form in the 880 and junior Mike Long was an outstanding performer in the discus. Lew Reynolds, a junior, did a fine job for the Patriots in the triple jump and the broad jump. Versatile Ricky Dygve handled three events for the team: the 440, the shot put, and the discus. Dygve, a junior, showed consistently fine form and ability in all three of these events. Milers Ray Burke, Mark Carper, and John Klein provided the Patriots with an impressive group of distance runners. Klein also starred in the two mile run, winning all but one race this season.

Mike Long winds up as he prepares to heave the discus.

Baseballers Produce Unexpected Record

The Patriot baseball team of 1965 started the season, weakened by graduation losses and the loss of several ineligible starting infielders. They won 8 however while losing 9. An 8-9 record does not show the talent and accomplishments of this team. They were the first high school team ever to defeat the Virginia Polytechnic Institute's freshman team. Several members of the team distinguished themselves. Pitcher David Reid posted a 5 won 2 lost record while compiling a low 1.32 earned run average. Jim Altis batted at a .317 pace and was voted the team's Most Valuable Player. Seniors Tim Smith and John King batted .333, and .311, respectively. Junior catcher David Ward and sophomore catcher Phil Bushkar did a fine job defensively for the Patriots and Bob Bushkar helped Reid on the mound. Freshmen Bruce Mann and Bob Blane promise to be a help to the team for three more years. Ten returning lettermen give the Patriots bright hopes in the years to come.

Golf Team Has Banner Year

Gene Taylor glares at his into a sand trap.

Few high schools have golf teams which have even a single player who can shoot below par. The Patriot golfers of 1965 have not one, but three boys who have shot sub-par scholastic competition rounds. Billy Nash shot a three under par, 68, on two different occasions. Bob Hudgins and Richard Shepherd shot 68 and 69 respectively.

The Patriots, always strong in golf, looked even more powerful than usual this year, losing only three matches of eleven. In an outstanding 23½ - 3½ victory over Jefferson, two Patriot golfers scored in the sixties and the other four all toured the course in fewer than 77 strokes.

Next year's team will miss the ability of seniors Jim Forrest, Gene Taylor, Richard Shepherd, and Bob Hudgins.

PH Places Second in State Tournament

In compliance with its outstanding tradition Patrick Henry once again dominated the Western District in Tennis. Coached by Mr. Larry Johnson, the mighty Patriots compiled a 9-1 record to win the Western District championship. In addition to winning the District Championship the team placed second in the State Tournament at Charlottesville. In this competition Jack Burrows placed second in the Number One Singles, David Turner was first in the Number Two Singles, Horace Thomas won the Number One doubles, Thomas and Sterling Johnson were third in the Number Two doubles.

Each member of the tennis team had an individual winning season. With only two Seniors on the team this year the Patriots are looking forward to a successful 1966 season.

Activities Buoyed by Enthusiasm

1965 brought two firsts to Patrick Henry. First, Betsy Adams, a rising Senior, was chosen by the Americans Abroad Program of the American Field Service to spend this summer as the daughter of a family in Sweden. This program is offered to schools which have entertained foreign students in their own home schools. Second, at the Southern Association of Student Councils Patrick Henry was selected secretary-host; A chairman and two secretaries have already begun preparations for the P.H. convention. A mock robbery for the J.F.K. Memorial Scholarship, clothing for Bundle Day, Green Stamps for the A.F.S. program, Project '65, a satirical revue, P.H. Whiz Kids on Klass-room Kwiz, after-the-victory hops, Sebastian and the House-Rockers rocking at the Christmas Dance, and a thousand other projects filled Patriots' days and nights with fun and work.

F.H.A. Means Preparation

The ideas of personal growth and community service dominated program planning this year for the Future Homemakers of America. Among the favorite topics for discussion were Christmas decorations, beauty tips, modeling, teen values, and safety in the home. The FHA entertained the children at the Baptist Home with a Valentine party.

F. H. A. members were K. Arrington, B. Bailey, S. Caldwell, J. Carroll, E. Carter, P. Carter, R. Crook, C. Dabney, D. Deans, P. Fitch, D. Hannabass, J. Heck, B. Hilts, J. Hoover, G. Keaton, S. Lowe, J. Macy, J. Pratt, S. Teveri, G. Toler, J. Wilbur, L. Wright, P. Richardson.

Darlene Hannabass, treasurer, and Kathy Arrington, secretary, plan for a degree committee meeting.

Members plan a coffee in honor of the guidance department for F.H.A. week, April 4-10.

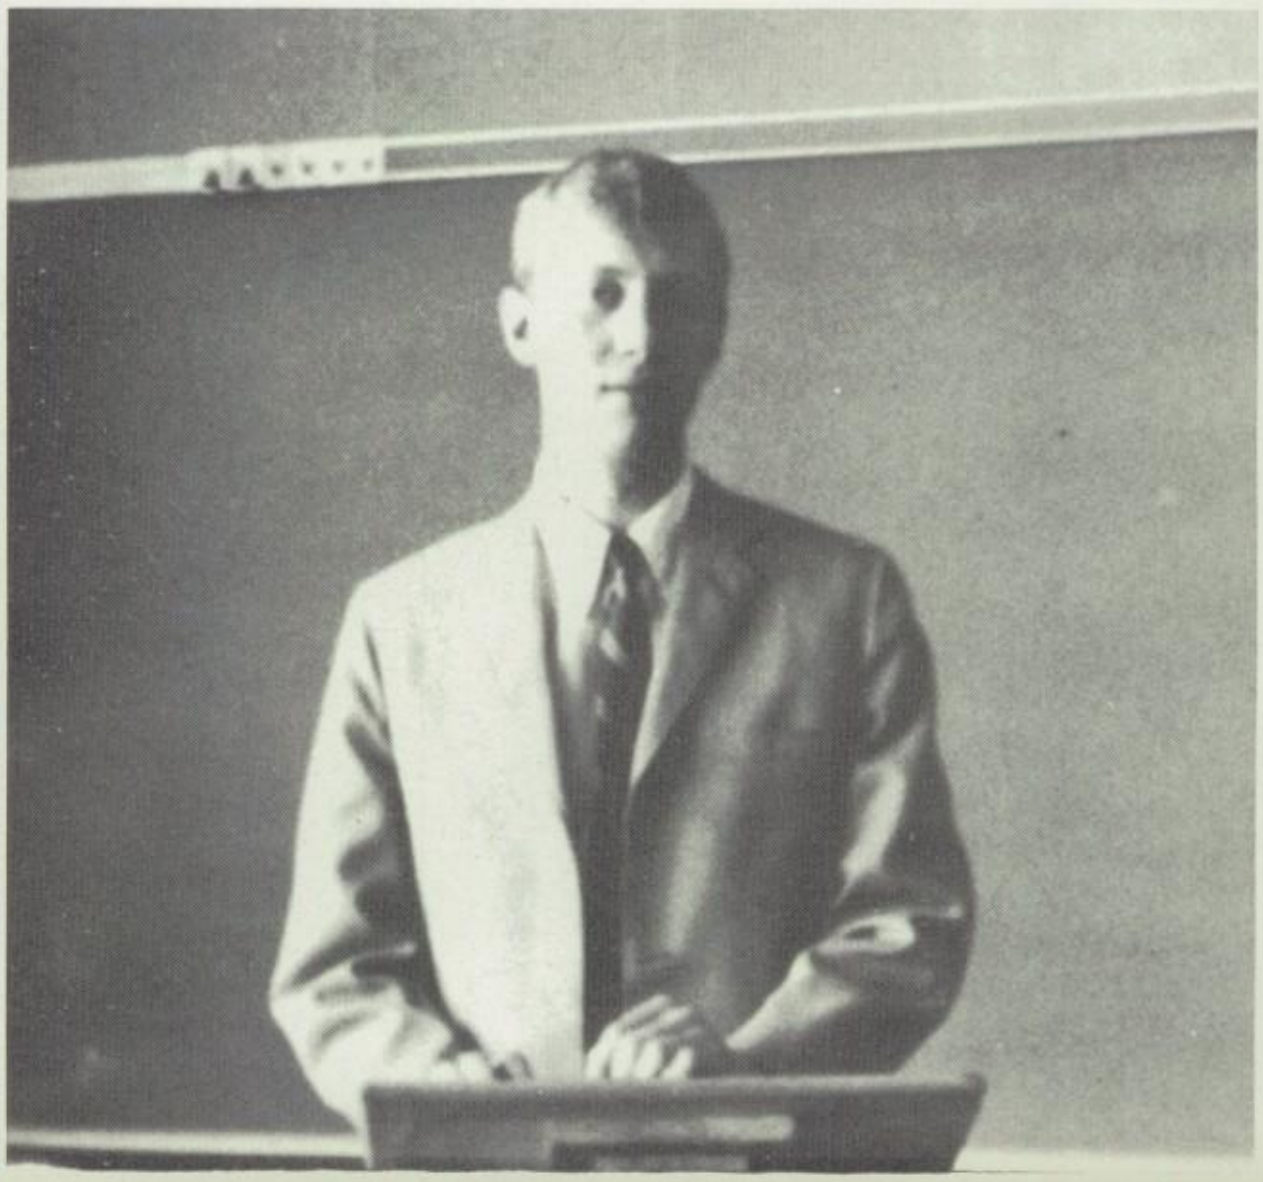
Hi-Y Serves Our Community

Homeroom representatives carry baskets of food to the front at the Christmas assembly. Hi-Y members later distributed baskets to needy families.

The Hi-Y is perhaps the most universally recognized service club in the secondary school system of the United States. In the year of 1965 Patrick Henry had a very active Hi-Y. In November the Hi-Y helped sponsor the Pigskin Prom in honor of Varsity Footballers. With the coming of Christmas boys of the Hi-Y delivered baskets containing food and gifts to needy families in our community. All year long it cosponsored the daily blessings during the three lunch periods. Spring brought with it the annual picnic and induction of the officers for the year 1966. The success of the Hi-Y during the 1965 year must also be measured not only by the events they sponsored and the concern they displayed but also by the principles they upheld as an organization of Christian belief and strong character.

Mr. Larry Johnson served as advisor for the club and David Brammer was its President.

President David Brammar presides over the April 10th meeting of the Hi-Y in Parsons Hall.



A tea for new members, a mock election, the Pigskin Prom, the Hanging of the Greens at the Y, a spring banquet, and many different speakers marked the Y-Teen 1964-65 season.

Members are: A. Adams, K. Akers, F. Andrews, M. Armentrout, J. Ayres, D. Barton, M. Beyer, S. Beyer, C. Blake, T. Blank, P. Booker, K. Brobst, K. Brugh, S. Bulbin, J. Bush, N. Clark, M. Culpepper, N. . . . And So Do The Y-Teens

1964-65 officers are Mickey Mitchell, vice president; Suzanne Foster, secretary; Judy Yancey, program chairman; Eliza Stockman, president; Carla Deshields, ICC representative; and Drew Gibbons, treasurer. Here they program for the Y-Teen weekend retreat, April 9-10 at the Y camp on Craig Creek.

At a post-meeting discussion Eddie Lowenstein, secretary-treasurer, points out the seriousness of the issues of the '64 presidential campaign to Jenny Nininger, president, and Bruce Gillespie, vice president.

Liberal Arts Accents Art-Theater, Travel, Language

Art, theater, travel, and language were accented in the Liberal Arts Club. Miss Sandy Helms who worked at the American Exhibition in Moscow and traveled throughout Russia talked to the club and showed slides. In a series of three sessions, Mrs. Young, head of PH's art department, spoke on the history of art. The members attended a preview and explanation of the play The Lark. Among the club's favorite discussion topics were South Viet Nam, political situations in the U.S. and other countries, the proposed Patrick Henry honor system, and the '64 political campaign.

Members were P. Felton, B. Gillespie, J. Horner, L. Horner, L. Leavitt, S. Kephart, E. Lowenstein, J. Meador, J. Nininger. M. Nininger, A. Trolson, C. Wickstein.

Leading a discussion on the Viet Nam situation is Ann Trolsen, program chairman.

The Players
Act, Sew, Paint, Direct, Light

The Patrick Henry Players have again had another busy year. Under the guidance of a new director and sponsor, Mr. Ron Taylor, the players produced four plays.

Through the Players, there is an opportunity to learn all facets of stage work. Anyone with any talent, whether it be acting, painting, sewing, building, or directing, could be a useful and important player.

A reward for the hard working Players is membership in the National Thespian Society. To be inducted into the society a player must have 15 service points acquired by working on the club's productions. Each point represents 10 hours work, thus making a total of 150 hours necessary for membership. To be an officer of the Players a student must first be a Thespian.

Heading the list of the Players performances was Thornton Wilder's Pulitzer Prize winner, The Skin of Our Theeth, which was given in November. Because of the large cast many new students were given the opportunity to show their talents.

For their winter show the Players The Lark by Jean Anouilh. This was a very ambitious choice for The Lark is considered to be one of the top ten dramas of the world.

Thespian officers are Hunter Roberts and Marilyn Brigham, vice presidents; Nancy Moss, secretary; Mary Anne Moorman, president; and Bill Waldrop, treasurer.

4 Shows Equal One Zillion Hours

It was decided to produce THE LARK "theater in the round" style because of the limited equipment of the Patrick Henry stage. This was a first for Patrick Henry. Theater in the round gives the actors more space to work in and makes for a better audience view. "Impromptu" by Tad Mosel was selected for the one-act Drama Festival.

Another first for the school and the Players was the selection of CARNIVAL, a resplendent musical, which was presented for the third annual Spring Serata. The Serata is produced as a combined effort of all the members of the Fine Arts Department.

At the Thespian banquet held in May, new Thespians were inducted and officers for next year were elected. Acting awards were given for their outstanding performances to Bill Waldrop for The Lark, Russ Gustafson for The Lark and Carnival, and Marty Corstaphney for The Lark. Award for the best technician was given to Bobby Francis; Mary Ann Moorman received the award for the Best Thespian.

Ideals Guide NHS Service

Noblisse oblige — nobility obligates — is the watchword of the National Honor Society. Membership, recognized as one of the highest honors a student can obtain, is not an end in itself; it is a beginning of service and leadership.

Projects of the N.H.S. include paperback book selling, tutoring, corresponding with alumni, sponsoring of branch libraries, and arranging the annual banquet for honor graduates. The N.H.S. worked with the S.G.A. to initiate the honor system and to foster an atmosphere of honor at Patrick Henry.

Richard Shepherd shows Laurel Stoller where her name will be on the NHS sponsored plaque which honors Patrick Henry valedictorians.

At the NHS Tapping Assembly on February 26, Betsy Floeting, Richard Shepherd, and Bob Rutherford welcome Cindy Levin into the Society.

Molly Hutcheson, secretary, and Marilyn Brigham, president, leaf through a Quill and Scroll magazine to keep their society's activities in time with those of the nation.

Quill and Scroll Encourages Journalism

Honoring students who have excelled in academic areas and who actively participate in one of the five publications at Patrick Henry is the Quill and Scroll National Honor Society. These students work on one or more of the following: Orator, Latin newspaper; LaLiberte, French newspaper; Quill, the literary magazine; The Statesman, school newspaper; Patriot, the yearbook.

Officers Marilyn Brigham, president, Cathy Crockett, vice president, Molly Hutcheson, secretary, and Lynn George, treasurer, planned two literary banquets where speakers active in the journalistic world spoke to the high school amateurs.

Fall banquet, held for the induction of new members took place at the Harvest House. Mr. Richard Dillard, a professor from Hollins College, spoke on the amusements found in journalism. He emphasized the need for a well-rounded education which is required to be successful and satisfied in the world of journalism.

The spring banquet brought to a close a great year for the Honor Society.

Patriot Unites Students With Past

For three years, the Patriot has been issued in the summer so that spring sports, academic and athletic awards and graduation could be included for the complete record of the school. Produced for students, parents, faculty, and the public, the Patriot is a record of all the travels made by the 1309 students at Patrick Henry. In the future, this book will remain as a diary of various events, that took place during 1964-65, as a record of students activities, and as a reunion with the past. For in it is recorded journeys into academic life, the arts and athletics.

Sixteen active and willing students put the book together. Page and cover layouts were designed by the art staff supervised by Art Editor Joyce Brown and Art Advisor Mrs. Shirlee Young. All page material was organized by the literary staff headed by Ellen Stone, Editor-in-Chief, and Sponsor Mrs. Elizabeth Drewry.

Eddie Lowenstein served as Photographer. Cathy Huddleston, Business Manager, Patty Groff, and Lynn Andrews were in charge of the ads.

QUILL Inspires Creative Expression

Quill, the award winning literary-art magazine, presents the best creative writing and art work submitted by Patrick Henry's talented young authors and artists.

The majority of the literary material is supplied by Mrs. Jacqueline Arnold's creative writing class, although often student work is submitted by other teachers or by the students themselves. In the creative writing class, time is spent learning techniques, studying models, and reading the works of great authors; then students are given a chance to express their own thoughts and ideas. How great is the feeling of success when a student has written his first essay, short story, cinquain, or sonnet!

Outstanding art work for the Quill is furnished by the art classes under the direction of Mrs. Shirlee Young. Illustrations are inspired by stories, poetry, or articles, read by the art students or taken from class assignments or sketch books. Often the tables are turned and drawings or paintings inspire verbal interpretations. This produces an interesting "Poet Interprets Art" or "The Artist Speaks" feature. The variety of art work in Quill results from a great number of students being given the chance to contribute material.

Marilyn Brigham, Editor-in-Chief of QUILL, writes herself into a corner for the Creative Writing Class.

Members of the QUILL staff, Slim Kummer, Pam Johnson and Stephanie Traylor, make a final copy check while Marilyn Brigham dictates to Ann Thomas.

This year the Quill staff, determined to continue its high standards and eager to strike out anew, decided to publish one large issue, instead of the traditional Fall and Spring issues. With this issue new and various features could be used to add sparkle and a greater degree of variety to the magazine.

From early September until the day the Quill went to the printer, endless hours were spent criticizing, sketching, painting, typing, editing, and pasting up the final dummy. But both the staff and contributing students knew that their hours were well spent when they saw their reward—the 1964-65 Quill.

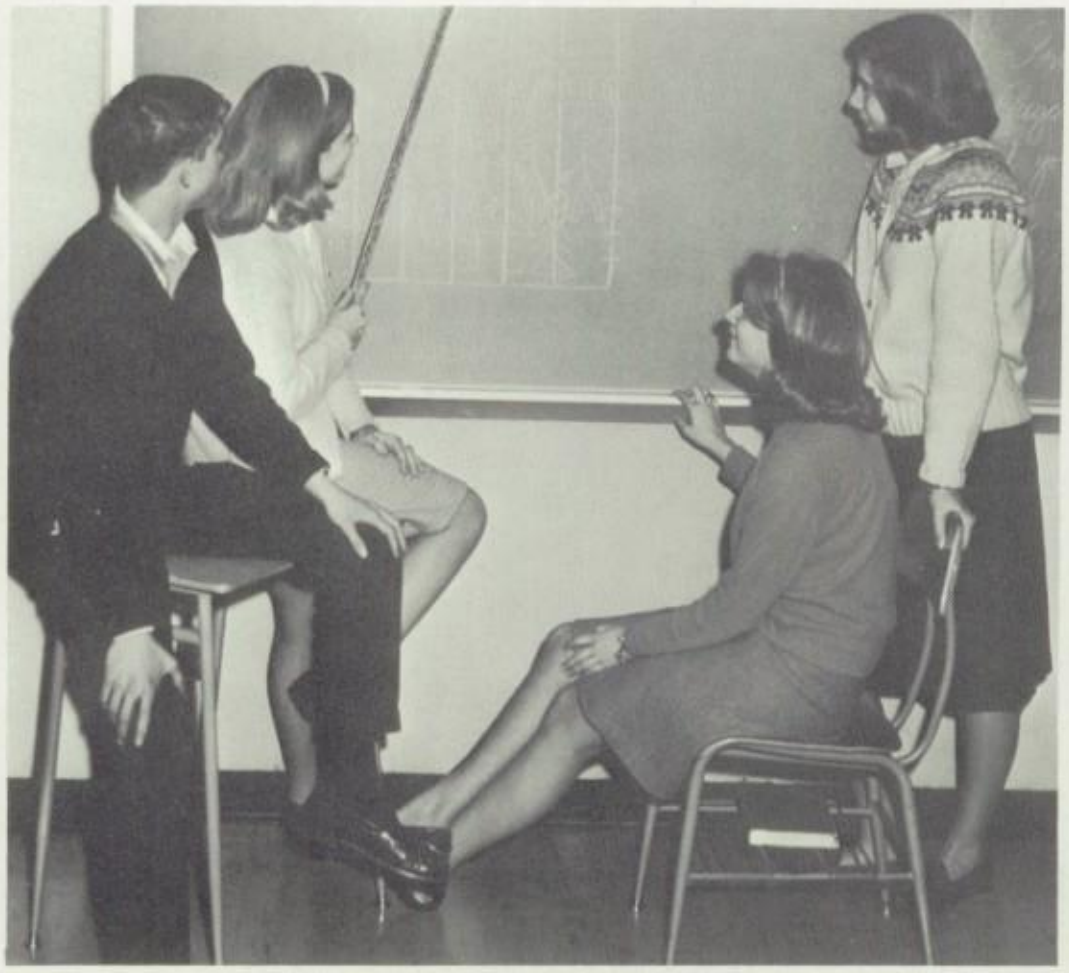
Hunter Roberts and Laura Pharis entertain the Creative Writing Class with an original ballad. The Creative Writing Class supplies most of the material for QUILL.

Mrs. Shirlee Young and Mrs. Jacquelynn Arnold, Art and Literary Advisors, choose manuscripts to be illustrated by art classes.



Lynn George points out the techniques of a clowned page lay-out to Jim Kulp, Jenny Gregory, and Molly Hutcheson.

Martha Tracy, Sydney Turner, Barbara Bishop, Arlyn Traylor, and Linda Bailey prepare a display to acquaint students with lay-outs of exchange newspapers.

Kathy Crockett, Editor-in-Chief, heads the Statesman staff.

Before the deadline date, Judy McCartney and Emalee Grim check copy assignments to be sure they have been completed.

After the staff members have brought the papers from the printers, Cindy Levin, Pat Gwaltney, Eddie Lowenstein, Kay Akers, Sara Schwartz, and Nancy Moss, rush to admire the Christmas issue of the Statesman and eagerly to point out their own work in print to Mrs. Wood.

Statesman Keeps P.H. Posted

Every other Friday, eager Patriots clamor for their copies of the Statesman. The seventeen issues of Patrick Henry's newspaper carry school news and other items of interest to students. This six-page publication is distributed to approximately 900 student subscribers, school faculty and administrative staff, and the city school board.

The actual preparation for each issue covers a two-week period. Assignments are made to the staff members on Friday and the following Friday the copy is handed in, checked, and often rewritten. By the end of this first week the pages are completed and the paper is sent to the press. One week before the paper is to be issued, final proof-reading takes place at the printer's.

J.C.L. Brings Rome to Roanoke

France and Rome Make the News

Eddie Lowenstein, Editor, Jane Mastin and Susan Bulbin, Assistant Editors, and the early rising La Liberte staff meet at a preschool planning session. Mrs. Myrella Roberts is La Liberte advisor.

Orator, the Latin newspaper, and La Liberte, the French newspaper, offer language students the opportunity to practice journalism while they gain linguistic skills. Though these papers are projects of the advanced classes, students of all levels are encouraged to contribute articles. Written entirely in French, La Liberte highlights French culture and current events. "Fun to do" puzzles slyly test knowledge as they lighten class activity. Orator, written in Latin and English, works with the J.C.L. to foster a knowledge of classical civilization and carries P.H. Latin news throughout the state.

Carol Spicer, Editor, and Carolyn Walke, Business Manager, paste up the Orator dummy while Anne Sacks, Co-Editor, makes headlines and Phyllis Young sketches art work. Miss Edith Shanks is Orator advisor.

LaMarianne Has Many Activities

Class representatives to the French Club, Peanut Willis, Jan Butler, Blair Fulton, David Dull, Bob Dillard, Debbie Schartz, Betsy Edwards, and Ira Katz help sort and pack clothes to be sent to a needy French family. Best Relations With Business

Members were kept abreast of the time by hearing outstanding guest speakers and seeing business operations in action. Better relations with the business world were encouraged by arranging tours to companies such as Creative Packaging and Johnson-Carper Furniture. Two main projects sponsored by the club were a contribution to the Kennedy Scholarship Fund and a Thanksgiving basket to a needy family. The highlight of the year was the St. Patrick's Day party . . . an interesting member—parent—teacher social. A picnic ended the events of the year.

Choir Goes to Mississippi With a Suitcase and a Song

Patrick Henry's Choir, under the direction of Mr. Gene Ferguson, presented an active, music filled year. Beginning the activities the Choir provided many fall melodies for the Thanksgiving Assembly. Two television appearances, performances for several civic groups, an assembly at school, carolling in the halls, and the presentation of Handel's Messiah, created a wonderful atmosphere to fill the Christmas holidays. Representatives for All-state Chorus were sent to Pulaski, Va. Then diligence and daily practice produced a profitable recital in March presented by the combined choirs of Patrick Henry and Woodrow Wilson. After last minute details had been cleared up, the Choir found itself en route to Mississippi for the spring tour, which included performances in high schools, colleges, and churches. The final exciting fillip to the tour was provided by an invitation to a ball given by the Governor of Mississippi.

The spring concert was held on April 23 at Woodrow Wilson. Other spring engagements included an appearance at Towers Shopping Center for Music Week, and the annual exchange assembly with Addison for Easter. Also many of the members of the Choir participated in the production of Carnival, presented as the spring Serata, an annual project of the Fine Arts Department. The finale of the Choir's year was the presentation of the final concert and participation in the Baccalaureate Services and Commencement.

Patrick Henry's representatives to All-District Chorus were Richard Edwards, Connie Blake, Don Buckley, Frances Cundiff, Art Eddy, Ann Janney.

Liberty Belles Ring for P.H. Progress

During football season, the Liberty Belles, under the direction of Mrs. Betty Jo Patsel, practiced almost daily after school perfecting their routines. This high-stepping group of girls added color and spirit to the band in half-time shows for P.H. football and basketball games, pep assemblies, and in parades. This year the group accompanied the band to Washington and Lee and to the South-Eastern Band Festival at Bristol, Tennessee. In the late spring the squad for the 1965-66 season was chosen.

'64-65 members were L. Holdren (Senior Head), J. Dodson, (Junior Head), S. Adams, S. Caldwell, C. Camper, K. Denny, W. Fleshman, S. Hart, T. Kerfoot, J. Macy, S. McCusker, L. Mowry, L. Riggle, J. Robertson, S. Sink, S. Teveri, A. Thomas, B. Wallenborn, A. Webster, N. Webster, B. Willard, J. Young.

Liberty Belle Ann Thomas prances in an amphitheater pep assembly.

Members are: P. Abell, M. Armentrout, B. Berkeley, J. Bonesteel, J. Brooks, L. Browning, T. Calhoun, J. Chapplear, S. Coffee, K. Denny, G. Douglas, D. Drewry, K. Dunn, J. Eure, B. Evans, J. Band Bolsters Patriot Rallies

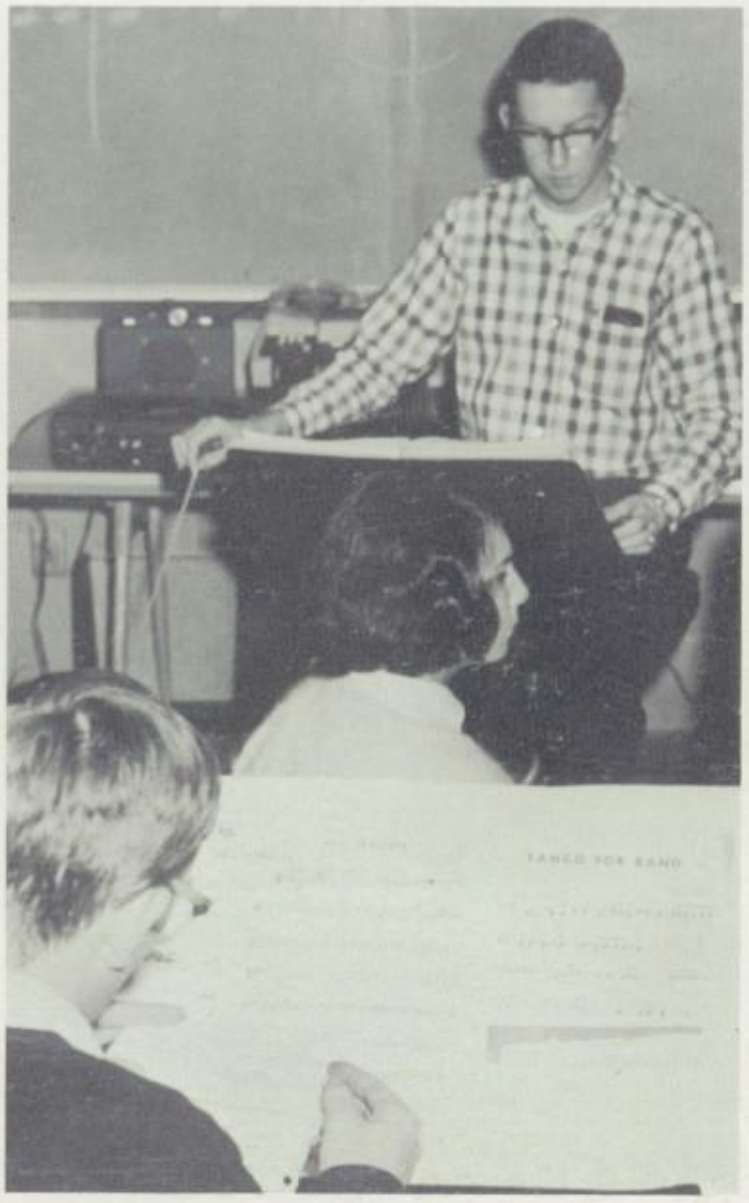
After the three o'clock bell rings and the halls have cleared it should be a quiet school, but it isn't. Across the school campus echo the roll of drums, the sounds of brass instruments, and the shrill call of the leader's whistle. The Patrick Henry band is marching over its very own practice field. The band also marches in parades and at football games. An excellent rating was received for these efforts at the District Band Festival in Bristol. To raise money for new uniforms, members of the band sold foam rubber stadium cushions. In January they presented a concert at Woodrow Wilson Jr. High School. At pep assemblies they were always there to induce school spirit. A special pep band was taken to Lynchburg for the Patrick Henry versus E. C. Glass football game.

After the three o'clock bell rings, and the halls have cleared it should be quiet, but it isn't.

Members of the band council act as judge and jury for out of step marchers.

David Meincke, head drum major, meets Governor Nelson Rockefeller at Woodrum Airport. The Governor was on his way to speak at the Virginia Municipal League Convention.

At an afternoon football pep assembly in the amphitheater, John Eure and Stuart Robinson play the school song to boost student morale.



Toby Mabry, senior student director, leads an afternoon practice session.

COMPATRIOTS ALONG THE WAY

Class of '68 Makes PH More Patriotic

Freshman year was the beginning of a four year journey through high school. The youngest compatriots, Class of '68, left junior high paths to follow earlier travelers and chart vast, new frontiers.

Activities sponsored by the Freshman Class included initiating a program of respect for the flag, selling its members as slaves on April 29 to teachers and upperclassmen, and giving an orientation assembly at Woodrow Wilson for eighth graders.

Miss Haley is the Freshman Class sponsor. Officers of the class are Skipper Hudgins, Executive Council representative, Allison Smithy, treasurer, Carol Bishop, secretary, Bill Andrews, vice president, and Tom Bagby, president.

As a part of the freshman program for respect of the flag, Sharon Crawford and Mike Hicks demonstrate a proper salute.

At the orientation assembly at Woodrow Wilson, Heman Marshall describes the extra-curricular activities at P. H.

Bill Ellis finds a quiet corner of the library to read his English assignment, Julius Caesar.

Greg Duty is escorted by his book carrying slave, Arthur Davis. Sarah McAfee walks her mistress, Renee Brumberg, to her second class in Persinger Hall.

Class of '67 Profits from Spring Fever

The second leg of the journey, Sophomore year, was a visa to lands of biology and geometry. Having reached the halfway marker, the Class of '67, now experienced travelers, became upperclassmen.

After a class-sponsored student poll, constructive criticism stimulated improvements for SGA records, library use, and room furnishings. At Spring Fever on April 30, Patriots danced away doldrums.

vice-president; Dee Copenhaver, Execu-
Benson Wire, treasurer.

Mr. Lumpkin, new D.E. teacher, takes an active part in school activites as Sophomore Class Advisor.

Nancy West, Pat Albertson, and Karen Brobst make bright-colored flowers for Spring Fever decorations.

When Benson Wire insists that he wants to throw the crepe paper balls, the Fever work session is broken up.

Juniors Use Rummage to Reach Camelot

Junior year found the goal in sight. Eagerly anticipating the last step, the class of '66 donned class rings as symbols of new responsibility.

To raise money for their class the Juniors initiated a candy sale. For additional funds they held a rummage sale in May. Their work terminated in the annual Junior Senior Prom, which was held May 22, 1965. The dance featured Maurice Williams and the Zodiacs, and the theme, Camelot, was carried out in the decorations and floor show.

Johnny Weld, Marilyn Mason, Buddy Martha Board, Buddy Adams, and Mrs.

Several weeks before the prom, Nancy Norris begins work on the first draft of the program.

Archie Gordon, Judy Young, Martha Board, and Marilyn Mason open candy for the Junior candy sale.

Members of the steering committee meet in the morning with Mrs. Stone once a week to talk over class business and to plan money raising projects for their class.

Mrs. Stone is Junior Class sponsor. Officers are Valinda Woods, Executive Council Representative, Buddy Adams, treasurer, Liz Jennings, secretary, Coleman Young, vice-president, and Buddy Kling, president.

Class of '65 Leaves PH Traditions

Senior year was the end of the progression for the first four-year class at Patrick Henry. Leaving established traditions and lofty achievements to inspire those who come behind, the Class of 1965 lifted the boundary from high school into the world.

Foremost senior sponsored activity was a "Womanless Wedding", their last class project.

Class officers were Bobby Rutherford, president, Richard tative, Jimmy Long, vice-president, Cathy Walthall, sec Mrs. Stump served as class sponsor.

Shepherd, Executive Council represen-retary, and George Hawkins, treasurer.

Richard Shepherd presents to Edie Callet, Patrick Henry's Foreign Exchange Student, a class ring, the student body's Christmas present to their French friend.

Thumbing through his fourth year French textbook, Horace Thomas, an honor graduate, scowls at his assignment.

At the Senior Class project, a womanless wedding, Coach Ray Lucas and Mr. Robert Porterfield are joined in marriage.

Bobby Rutherfoord leads the class steering committee in a planning session for the senior weekend, finale of the school year.

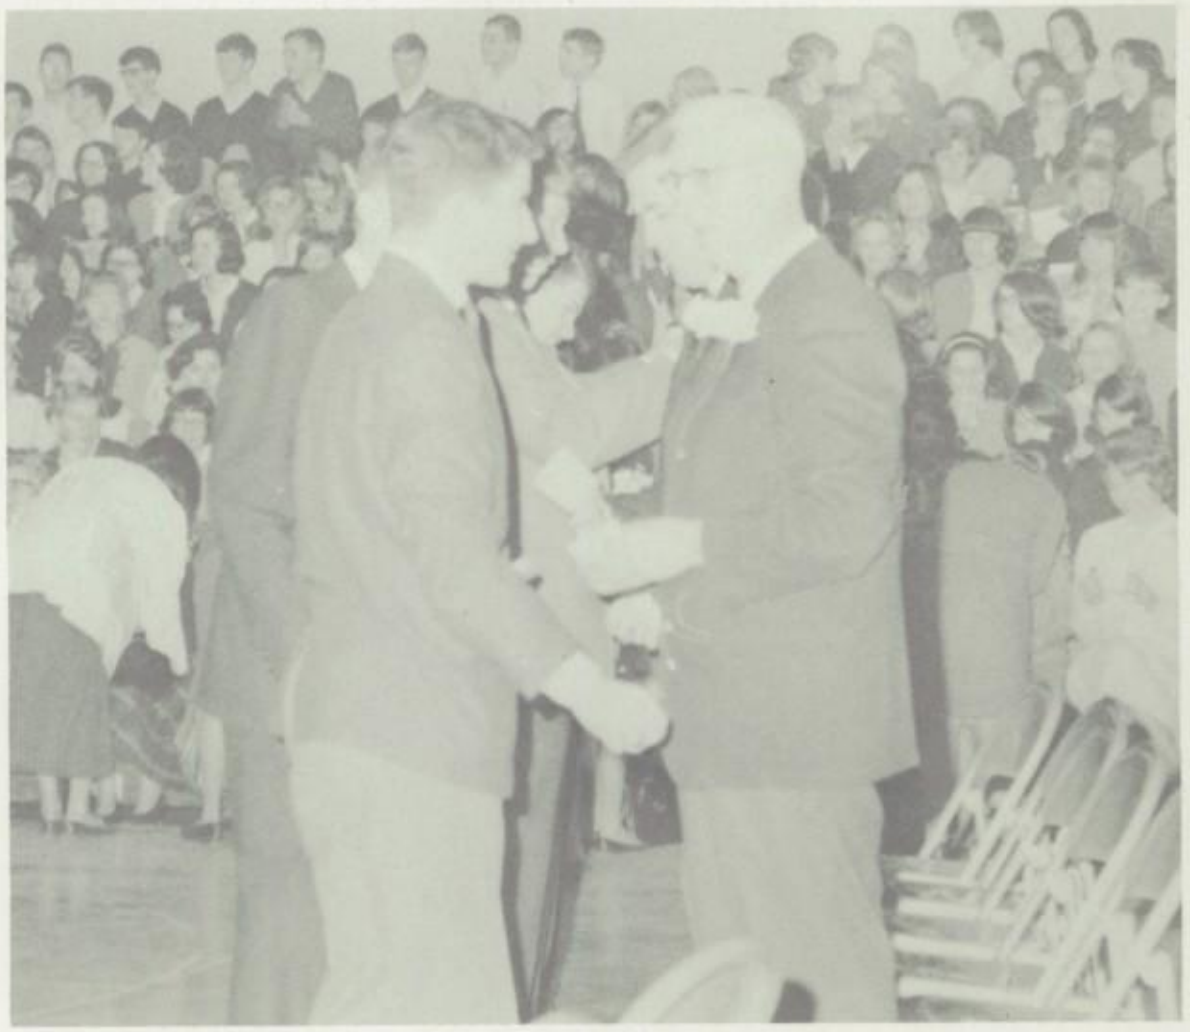
Seniors are Teachers and Faculty for a Day

Senior Leadership Day is held in order that the senior class may take over the school for a day. This gives them the opportunity to learn how a school functions, the mechanics of business work, the duties and obligations of the teachers.

Any period during the day a student wanted to take over a class or serve as a guidance counselor, he could. He took over completely, from taking roll call to giving pop tests; the student had full control of the class.

The senior class elected those to take the place of the administrative staff. Principal Harold Secord was replaced by Richard Shepherd, Director of Student Activities George Graybill by George Hawkins, Dean of Persinger Hall Ben Taylor by Bob Hudgins, Dean of Parsons Hall Don Bartol by Steve Hoover, Dean of McQuilkin Hall Carl Nave by Rowell Sargeant.

According to anticipation, the school ran well, classes as scheduled and no incidents occurred, proving that the senior class is a very responsible class.



Principal Harold Secord shakes the hand of Richard Shepherd, principal for the day.

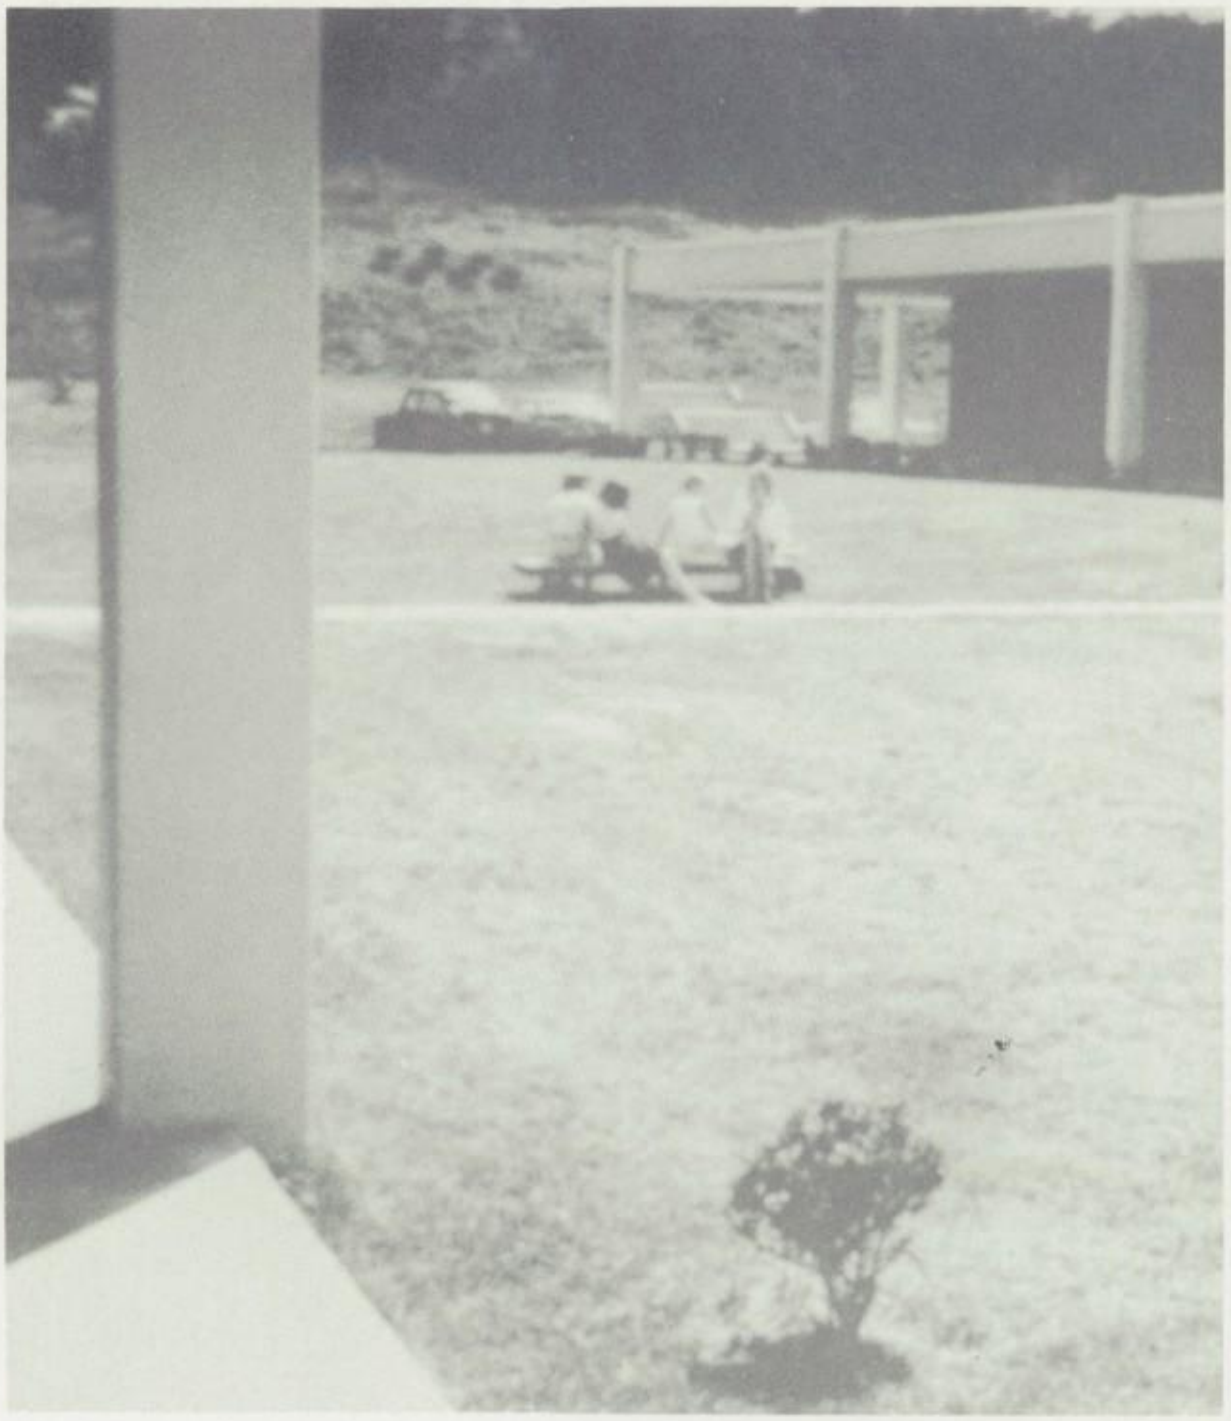
Senior Days Summarize High School Career

In the past the senior class has been allowed one day for graduation and baccalaureate practice, senior assembly. This year the senior breakfast and lunch, and class began its expanded activities on Thursday morning after their last exam. Picnic lunches, prepared by the school cafeteria, were enjoyed on the lawn between Parsons and McQuilkin Halls. Afterwards the practices began.

Following the practices, seniors headed for a nearby swimming pool, rented for the occasion. Having exercised in the sun for an entire day, the seniors readily greeted this opportunity.

At nine o'clock Friday morning, June 4th, the seniors gathered for breakfast in the cafeteria. Here they received their senior autograph sections for the yearbook and were then entertained by two Patrick Henry folk groups, followed by more tiring practices.



Because the seniors had to attend no classes on Friday, they had much leisure time.

For their last school assembly, seniors donned their caps and gowns and paraded into the gym where the entire student body, faculty, and guests were assembled. Their high school career was highlighted, prophecy and history read and dedication presented.

The class gifts to the school were pictures of the men each hall was named for and plans for a senior court to be built in the courtyard between Parsons and Persinger Halls.

That evening an informal dance was held in the school cafeteria to end two memorable senior days.

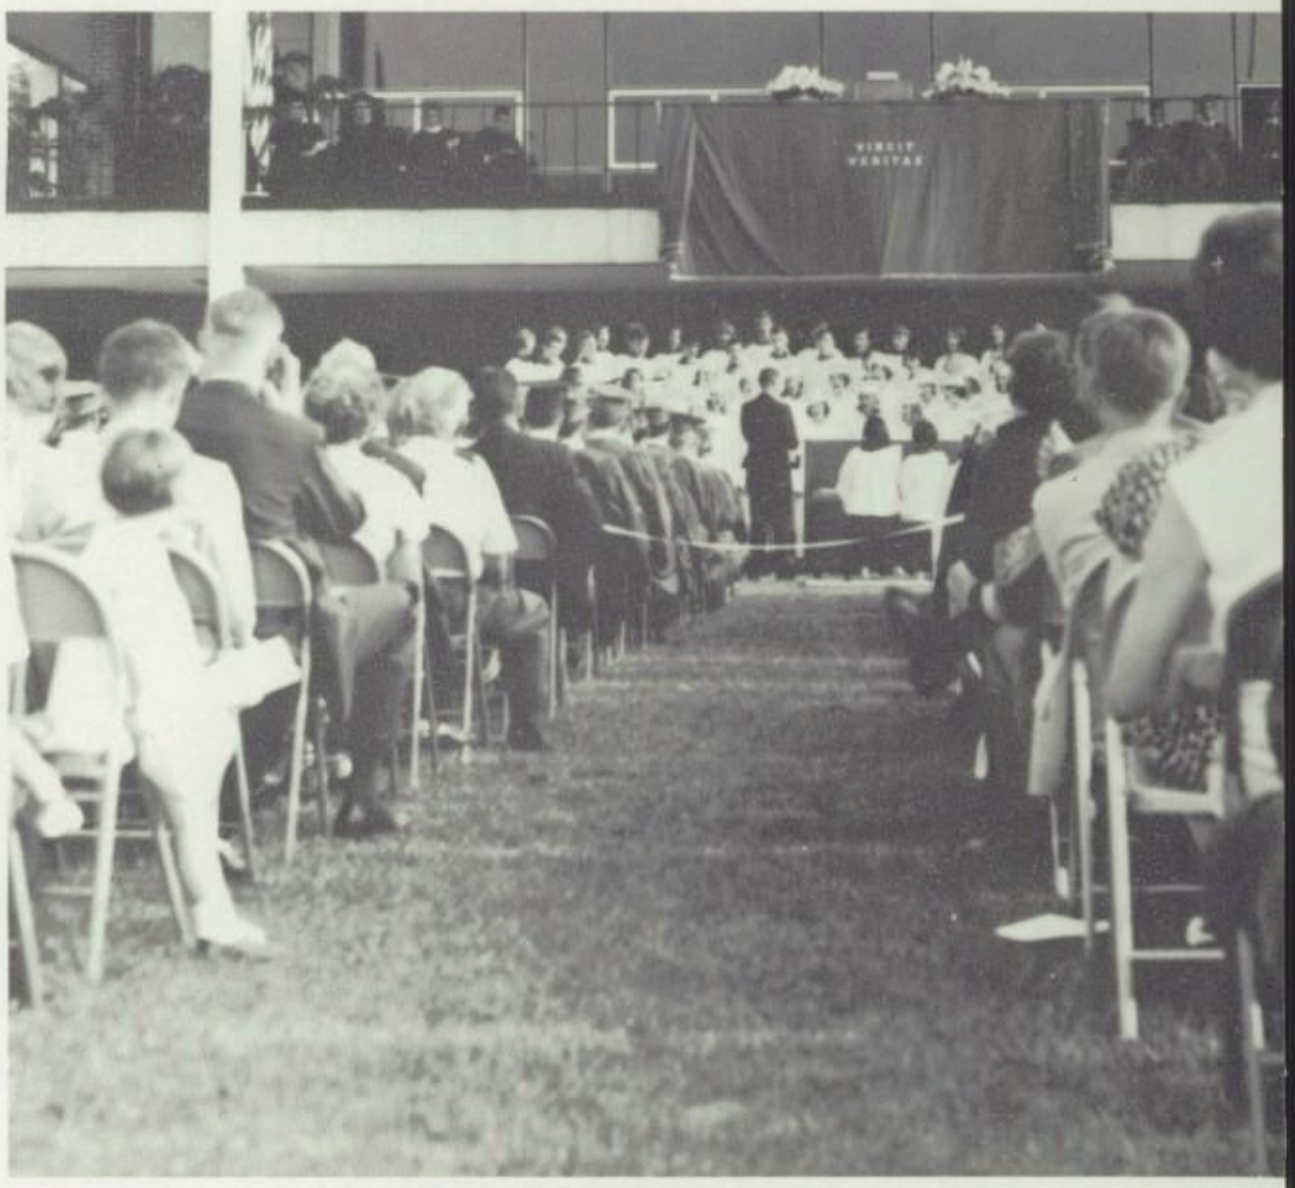
Tears, Laughter Mark the End of High School

The sun was setting as the Class of 1964 began their march across the school campus. The feet, keeping time with the processional, began their last high school march. Top five honor graduates gracefully presented their speeches. Validictorian Laurel Annabeth Stoller introduced the theme, "Invictus", unconquerable; stating that there are things in the Twentieth Century that are not advantageous but one must rise above them. Do not let oneself be conquered, saying at the end, "I am the master of my fate, I am the captain of my soul." Richard DeWitt Shepherd continued, his topic being the submersion of the individual. Ignorance in the modern world was the theme used by Opal Elizabeth Scruggs. Horace Bass Thomas followed with a summary of declining morality, the weakening of ideals. Carol Lynn Spicer ended with the fears of the future and how to overcome them.

Drums sounded, seniors rose and accepted their diplomas. The setting sun faded away as the Class of 1965 came to the end of their high school career.



"Onward Ye People", sung by the choir, followed through the theme of graduation.

Top Five Honor Graduates were Horace Bass Thomas, Laurel Annabeth Stoller, Carol Lynn Spicer, Richard DeWitt Shepherd, and Opal Elizabeth Scruggs, not pictured.

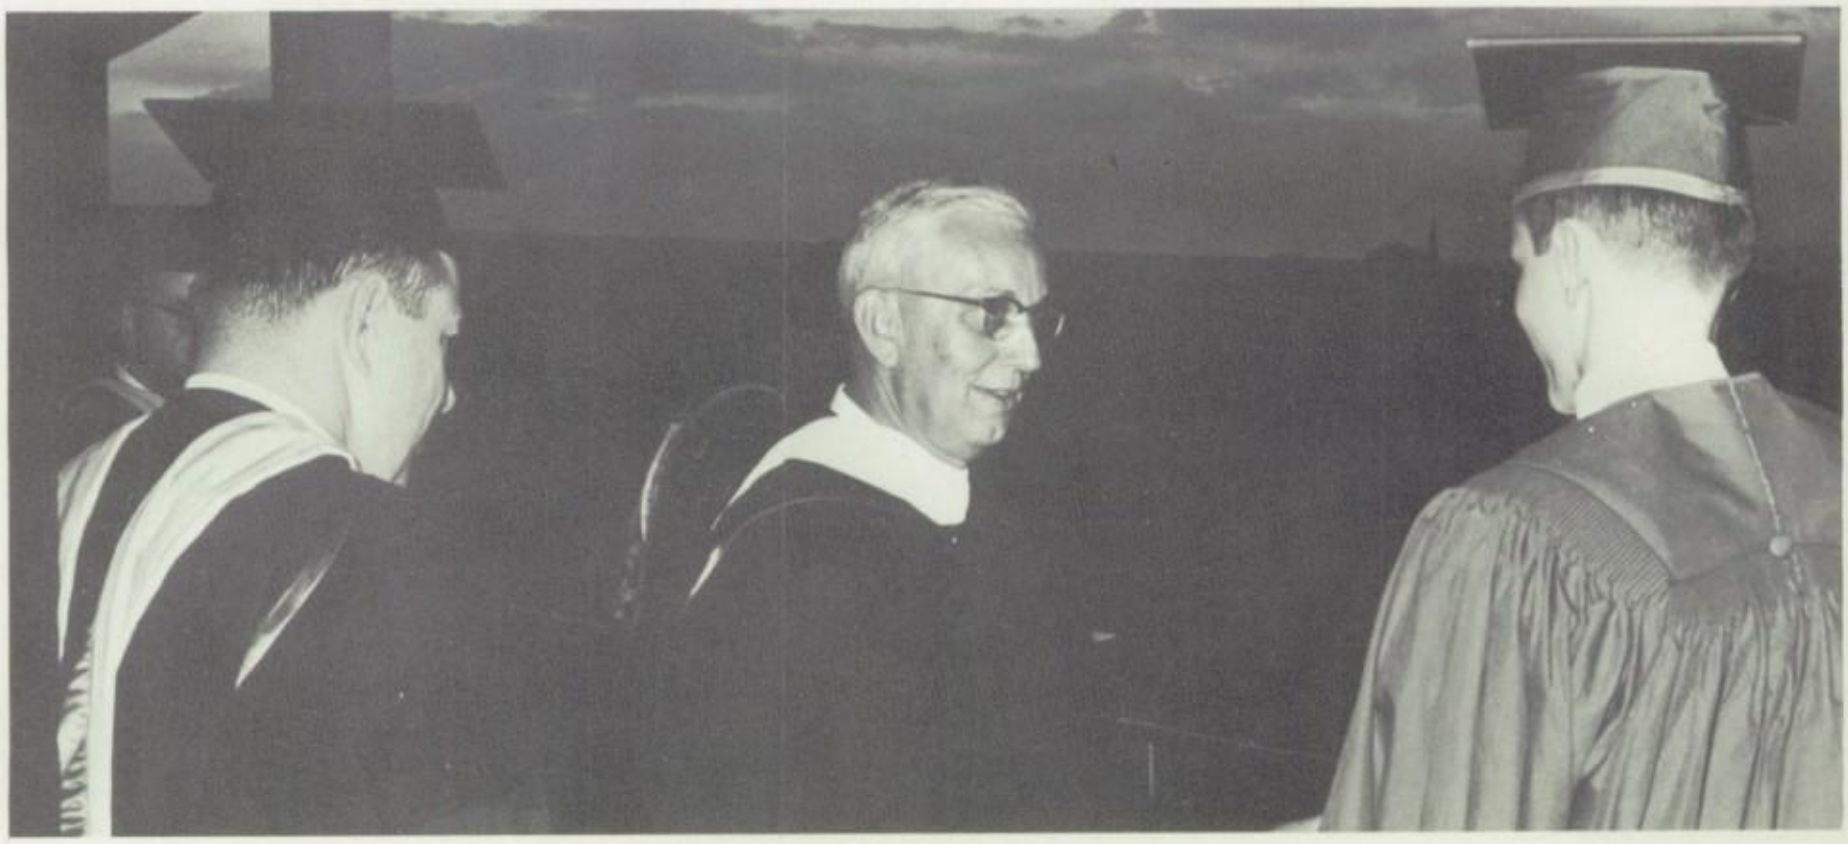
Senior Class Poem

". . . They keep telling us, 'you are the future, you are our hope.'
We look at each other, nod, and reply,
'Yes,we will go forth, we will accept the challenge
With bright lights and music playing, and we will save mankind.
But now the time to go forth has arrived,
And we aren't so sure . . . we aren't sure at all.

". . . Now the time for moving has arrived, and we are slow to depart,
Slow to board the train, slow to say good-bye.

". . . There was a time for being immature, and immature we were,
The only thing is . . . that time is over.



"Okay, world, take a deep breath. . .
We accept your stupid challenges,
We accept the Kremlin and the War on Poverty,
And that fouled up mess in Latin America.
We aren't too awfully sure what we can do with the challenges
Until we find out what to do with ourselves,
But that's okay, we'll do all right, we'll manage.
Maybe we'll do better than "all right"
Maybe we'll find ourselves, and get things worked out,
Maybe we'll just "go forth" and be the hope you've been seeking.
Maybe we will, but then again, it's an old song and dance,
And maybe we won't. . .
But let's worry about that another day,
When it isn't spring, and we aren't young,
And we haven't got a mortar board for courage.
Right now, we've been issued a challenge,
Right now, we're issuing ourselves a challenge,
And we're accepting world, you bet we are.
Who knows, maybe we can make it after all. . .
Yes, world, maybe we can. . .
Yes, world, maybe, just maybe. . .
we will."

United States Leadership, in the new world economics as in the political and social confrontation, depends in the last analysis on our ability, as a nation and as individuals, to think and plan in terms of the new forces at work in the world. It is not our weapons of war. . .not our treaties and agreements. . . not our words. . .but our ideas which must earn our place in the world. . .our ideas and our ideals.
